Children Seek Shaded Spot

IT WAS TOO HOT in the sun, so these five Marion children retreated into the shade of the front porch to play "Uncle Wiggily." "Ordinarily," the mother of one said, "at that time of the afternoon they would be out behind the house splashing in a wading pool, "but as has been the case of most afternoons this week, the sun was too warm." The children are (left to right) Martha Chesnut, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chesnut of 251 Cummins Ave; Clela Taber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Taber, 250 Summit St.; Charles Chesnut Jr.; Gerald Jennings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald R. Jennings of 219 Cummins Ave; and his sister, Edna Jennings. The picture was taken at the Jennings home.

$1,380,000 Worth Of Property Cited In Underpass Belt

A "close estimate" of the valuation of properties in the area of the proposed railroad underpasses on N. State and Prospect Sts. was presented to the joint traffic committee in its deliberations at City Hall Thursday night.

Based on an adjusted tax duplicate valuation, all the affected properties would be valued at about $1,380,000, according to a report to the committee by Harry L. Dowler, committee chairman.

While the committee did have this new information presented for its consideration, it did not arrive at any conclusion on whether to accept or reject the Marion aterial highway report.

IN OTHER DISCUSSION last night the committee also adopted a motion proposed by R. Guy Bigelow, safety - service director, establishing the procedure to be followed in 1-2-3 order in its deliberations.

It also discussed again a proposed alternate plan for an expressway parallelling the Pennsylvania Railroad right-of-way and construction of an underpass on N. Main St.

Committee members also gave Mr. Dowler a unanimous vote of confidence as chairman. Mr. Dowler had reported that following the Tuesday night meeting, a Marion resident had severely criticized him on his conduct of the meetings and had accused him of badgering the committee and attempting to lead its thinking.

Ray Beverly made the motion to thank Mr Dowler for the manner in which he has conducted the meetings and to ask him to continue as chairman

"I don't see that Mr Dowler has badgered or attempted to lead the thinking of the committee in any way," he said.

In presenting his report on the tax valuation for the affected properties on N. State and N. Prospect Sts, Mr. Dowler told the committee he obtained the figures from the tax books in the county auditor's office.

HE EXPLAINED that the county auditor's office had made an appraisal of properties in the city in 1949. Land values contained on the tax duplicates were based on known values at that time and building values were based on 1941 construction costs, he said.

The valuations were, at that time, placed on the tax books at 80 per cent of the total estimated valuation of land and buildings and in 1952 the auditor's office upped these figures by another 13 per cent, he said.

He further asserted that the auditor's office, now preparing for another re-appraisal of property values, has been watching closely the transfers of real estate and has found that the actual property values are running about 66 per cent higher than the valuation which appears on the tax duplicate.

He listed the total valuations as they appear on the tax duplicate for those properties in the area of th proposed underpasses as follows:

N State St., east side from Quarry St. south to about the county jail, $122,980; west side from opposite Quarry St south to Court St., $167,860; total N. State St. in area most affected by underpass, $290,850.

N. Prospect St., east side from about the old Isaly Dairy Co. building south to the first alley north of W. Center St., $99,820; west side from about opposite the old Isaly Dairy Co. building south to the first alley north of W. Center St., $69,510, total N. Prospect St., $169,330.

GRAND TOTAL both streets as listed on the tax duplicate now, $459,950

But if this is multiplied by three to reach an estimated resale value of the properties, the total is about $1,380,000.

MR. DOWLER further pointed out to the committee that while these valuations are not final, they do give some idea of "a close estimate" of actual valuation.

Warm, Humid Weather Seen In Local Area

Storm Brings Slight Relief; 90 Predicted In Ohio for Saturday

After three straight days of 90 degree temperatures, Marionites and Central Ohioans were promised some relief from the current heat wave today.

Partly cloudy, warm and humid weather was the outlook tonight and Saturday with scattered showers and thunderstorms forecast. A high reading of 86 was expected today, but the mercury will rise to 90 Saturday, the Ohio weatherman said.

Relief Arrives

Local weather observers reported a high temperature of 90 Thursday and a low of 63 No rain was reported at the local weather station although Marion received a thundershower. Near noon today the mercury stood at 76

Across the nation, relief from the summer's first heat wave moved into the Great Lakes area and the Upper Mississippi River Valley, the Associated Press reported. However, the rest of the Eastern half of the country continued to swelter.

Heat records were set in many Eastern areas Thursday. Records for the date included New York's 96.1, Newark with 99, and Columbus with 92.

Storms Hit Plains

Other high readings Thursday included El Paso and Phoenix, 101, San Antonio, 100, Philadelphia 95, Washington 93, Detroit 94, Cleveland 92, Milwaukee 91, Chicago and Minneapolis 90.

West of the Rockies the weather was more comfortable as a cool front moved inland from the Pacific and dropped temperatures from 5 to 20 degrees.

Scattered thundershowers occurred in the Northern Plains

Released After 3 Years in Prison

2 Catholic Missionaries Freed by Chinese Reds

HONG KONG (AP)—Peiping radio announced tonight two Roman Catholic missionaries from California, Father John Wilham Clifford and Thomas Leonard Phillips, were released today, after three years in prison.

The broadcast heard here said: "Two American offenders, John William Clifford and Thomas Leonard Phillips, who completed their prison terms on June 15, were released today by the authorities."

The release of the two American priests had been expected all day. U.S. Consular officials waited at the China border at Hong Kong for the expected arrival but the last train rolled in with neither of the two men on board.

A U.S. consular official said it might be several days or even a week before they reach this British colony

The two Roman Catholic priests will be the first American prisoners freed by the Reds in six months. Word of their impending release raised hopes that the Reds soon would free 11 other imprisoned Americans in a move to pump new life into the long-deadlocked U.S.-Chinese negotiations at Geneva.

The reports that Father Clifford and Father Phillips are being freed came from the British diplomatic mission in Peiping and through the British Red Cross. Peiping radio made no mention of them.

U.S., British and Roman Catholic Church officials maintained a fruitless, day-long vigil at the border to receive them.

The Reds last Jan 6 refused to free the last 13 Americans known to be in Chinese jails despite an agreement last Sept. 10 to release all Americans. Peiping radio broadcast a government state-

HOLBROOK, Ariz. (AP) — A massive fire — a mile and a half wide and nine miles long — continued to tear through the Sit-Greaves National Forest today after destroying an estimated 12,000 acres of timber and brush

The Forest Service said it could make no estimate of when the huge blaze might be controlled.

Ike Gaining But Is Silent Over Future

Best Progress Noted; No Hint on Political Plans, Hagerty Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower—reported making his best progress yet at the end of a week's hospitalization—today handled "quite a bit" of White House business including the signing of 22 documents.

This new activity was announced at the Army's Walter Walter Reed Hospital late this morning.

No Political News

At the same time, James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said flatly that Eisenhower has given no member of his staff any hint regarding his political future—specifically whether he intends to stay in the presidential race despite his new illness.

"I know he has not discussed it (the political situation) with his staff," Hagerty told a news conference.

As for a columnist's report that Eisenhower intends to announce his political plans before leaving the hospital, probably at the end of next week, Hagerty said:

"If you people think I'm going to comment on what every columnist says, you're nuts."

Has Heard of None

Asked to say independently of the columnist's report whether Eisenhower has discussed politics since entering the hospital a week ago today, Hagerty replied: "I have heard of no political discussion with the President.

"Apparently the columnist (Stewart Alsop) has a better crystal ball than I have."

Hagerty's report on Eisenhower's activities followed up a medical report this morning which Hagerty pronounced "by all means" the most optimistic issued since Eisenhower underwent surgery for an intestinal blockage Saturday morning.

The physicians said the President had "a very good night" with almost eight hours of continuous

Union Leader Fined, Jailed For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — John T Gojack, 39, Fort Wayne, Ind., labor union leader, today was sentenced to nine months in jail and fined $200 for contempt of Congress.

The sentence was pronounced by U. S. Dist. Judge David A. Pine, who turned down a plea by Gojack's attorney for a suspended sentence.

Gojack, a general vice president of the United Electrical and Machine Workers Union (UE) was convicted May 3 on six charges of contempt.

The union is one of several thrown out of the CIO before the CIO merger with the AFL, on the ground that its leadership followed the Communist line.

The indictment grew out of Gojack's refusal to answer a number of questions when he appeared before a House subcommittee on Un-American Activities Feb. 28 and March 1, 1955.

Plane Trouble Delays Sen. Bender, 36 Others

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen George Bender (R - Ohio) was among 36 passengers aboard a Trans World Airlines plane forced to return to Columbus Thursday night shortly after takeoff when "mechanical difficulty" caused the cabin to overheat.

The two-motored plane was en route to Washington.

H. J. Glenn, station supervisor at Port Columbus, said the return was a "precautionary measure." The passengers were placed aboard a special flight later in the evening to continue their journey eastward.

ADENAUER ARRIVES FOR VISIT. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is greeted by Maj. Gen. Leonard Heaton, hospital commandant, as he arrives to visit President Eisenhower at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington. Between them is U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Leaders 'Encouraged'

Salvation Army's Drive at $151,411

Total pledges in the Salvation Army building fund campaign now have reached $151,411.02 and results were called "most encouraging" today by drive leaders.

The current standing of the solicitation was announced Thursday night by Cleo Ludwig and John Stafford, campaign co-chairmen, at the monthly meeting of the advisory board.

The goal for the campaign was set at $205,200, but the drive has encountered several delays.

—:—

THESE DELAYS have necessitated extension of the campaign effort, but the co-chairmen are urging all division leaders, captains and workers to make every effort to conclude their calls by next week.

"There are many good prospect cards in several divisions on which reports have not been made," Mr. Ludwig and Mr. Stafford said this morning

"If the individuals, industrial corporations and other business firms represented by these cards are again contacted, there is a good prospect of reaching a total substantially near our over-all goal."

Two divisions — the Salvation Army personnel division and the County division — have exceeded their quotas. With their solicitation complete, the Army personnel have collected $11,344.62 against a quota of $10,260.

The County division, with more cards still to be checked, has turned in $10,495 72 against a quota of $10,260. Several other divisions are close to their quotas.

THE REMAINING divisions have reported the following totals to date, with quotas in parentheses: Special Gifts, $27,497 50 ($38,000); Industry, $32,264 ($50,000); Industrial Employes, $9,251.03 ($35,000); Commercial, $33,764.79 ($35,000); Professional, $11,525 ($14,000); Government, $7,229 40 $(7,500); Clubs and Oganizations, $4,038.96 ($4,680).

George Schertzer, chairman of the Salvation Army advisory board, today expressed his appreciation to Mr. Ludwig, Mr. Stafford, all the division leaders and workers for their excellent showing to date.

"All that is required now is a prompt and vigorous effort to finish the job," he said.

Mr. Schertzer pointed out that the architects have been instructed to proceed with the detailed working drawings for the building and they hope to have them ready by the middle of September.

"If all workers will finish their task and the returns follow the pattern established to date, the board will be in a position to proceed with construction of the new building early in the fall," he said. The new citadel will be constructed at the corner of Church and Windsor streets.

Any interested donors who have been missed inadvertently in the campaign are urged to mail their gifts to the Salvation Army Citadel or to call 2-1531, Mr. Schertzer asserted.

Offer Blasted As 'Entirely Inadequate'

Hike in Take-Home Pay Only Nickel an Hour, McDonald Says

NEW YORK (AP) — The United Steelworkers today rejected "as entirely inadequate" wage and contract proposals made by the Big Three steel firms.

David J. McDonald, union president, told newsmen:

"No mathematical juggling can obscure that the steelworkers are being offered an increase in take-home pay this year of five cents an hour."

'Too Little'

McDonald described the industry offer as "too little, too late and too long."

"The wage offer is too little," McDonald told a news conference.

"The fringes are inadequate and become effective too late to have any significance. And the whole contract, instead of being modernized, is to be extended, with its obsolescent features, for too long a period."

This was a reference to a suggestion by the Big Three firms—U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic—for a five-year contract.

McDonald topped off his statement by declaring:

"The titans of industry have labored and brought forth a louse." (sic)

The Big-Three firms had no immediate comment.

The union rejection of the offer will be presented formally to company negotiators by a four-man union negotiating team at a meeting this afternoon.

McDonald said rejection of the management offer was supported unanimously by the union's 170-member Wage Policy Committee at a meeting this morning.

Raises Strike Possibility

The rejection raised the possibility of a strike in the 650,000-man industry, unless the management-union differences can be reconciled before June 30, when present contracts expire.

McDonald said he still was hopeful that an agreement could be reached.

"After a year of record profits and productivity, the industry has offered the steelworkers a wage increase for this year of six cents an hour, and a minor adjustment for skilled employes of two-tenths of a cent in their job increments," McDonald said.

"At the same time, the industry's offer would require the employes to contribute one and one-half cents more for insurance

"The industry's wage offer, therefore, would result in a take-home pay increase to the average steel worker this year of about a nickel an hour—about two per cent."

Raps Five-Year Plan

"To get this trifling 2 per cent wage increase, the steelworkers would be required to mortgage an unpredictable future by agreeing now to settle their fate, and that of their families for a similar wage settlement for each year of a five-year term."

Apparently, this meant the offer provided for a two per cent wage increase for each of the five years.

The "Big Three" companies which set the pattern for the rest of the steel industry, are seeking a long-term contract to avoid the possibility of strikes and more frequent contract expiration dates. Most steel contracts have been two years, with annual wage reopening clauses.

There was an unofficial report that the union might accept a three year contract if the package increase was satisfactory.

Management negotiators are reported to have turned down a union proposal for time-and-a-half pay for Saturday work and double pay for Sunday work, on the ground that the cost would be too high.

The union's demands also included a "substantial" but unspecified pay increase, a 52-week layoff pay program and various welfare and health insurance benefits.

Present average pay in the industry is $2.46 an hour.

State Outlines Long-Range Road Program

Interstate Highway Project To Cost $1.8 Billion Over 13 Years

COLUMBUS (AP)—The State Highway Department Thursday night released its plans for building $1,849,600,000 worth of interstate highways in Ohio in the next 13 years.

Highway Director Samuel Linzell announced long range plans for spending money expected to be available from the federal highway bill, now in joint congressional committee.

Basing his plans on the more liberal House version, Linzell plans 953 miles of turnpike-standard superhighways throughout the state.

The federal bill also would provide millions for other state roads, but Linzell said the bulk would be spent on interstate highways.

Linzell said he based his planning without taking into consideration construction of a north-south turnpike as a freeway.

The plans include the following projects, listed by county, route number, length, location, cost, and years programmed:

Allen, U.S. 25, 19 miles, Lima to Bluffton, 3 million, 1957-58.

Auglaize-Allen, U.S. 25, 10.2 miles, Luma bypass, 2 million, 1967.

Wood, U.S 25, 5 5 miles, Ohio 18 to Cygnet, 6 million, 1963-66.

H-Bomb Missed Target? Air Force Is Not Talking

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force had only a noncommittal reply today to question about whether the B52 which dropped an H-bomb over Bikini last month missed the target.

The Atomic Energy Commission had nothing to say.

Reports that the big bomb was wide of the intended point of burst in midair have become current in recent days. They apparently come directly or indirectly from persons who saw the target point after radioactivity had diminished in the area.

Wide of Target

Some speculation places the margin of error in excess of 3,500 yards from the place above Namu Island where the explosion was intended. That's about two miles.

In response to a question, an Air Force spokesman said:

"The recent thermonuclear air drop at Bikini was conducted as scheduled.

"The Air Force considers that the ability of the B52 bomber to deliver a thermonuclear bomb was demonstrated successfully.

"Detailed information about the distance and altitude of the explosion in relation to the target is considered classified (secret) information under the provisions of the Atomic Energy Act."

12-Mile Restrictive Area

An error of even 3,500 yards might not be serious in an actual wartime drop of a weapon which has a major destructive force extending out to at least 12 miles from the point of burst.

But under the precise conditions set up for the Pacific test it could be disturbing. Recording instruments—are oriented carefully on the intended point of burst. If an explosion occurs elsewhere, some vitally needed information on the efficiency of the bomb is missed.

Electronics Industries Study General Economy

CHICAGO — The electronics industry — sparwling all the way from parts for guided missiles to TV sets and automatic washers — is eyeing the general economy warily today. Here, where perhaps a third of the nation's output centers, they stress a sharp cleavage in outlook.

That part of the industry dealing with the public directly — TV-radio and many home appliances — is on the soft side, waiting for the consumer to regain all the confidence in the future he showed last year.

But that part supplying industry and the military sees nothing to fear just now but the remote chance of a real recession. Industry's growth plans, its drive toward greater mechanization and automation, a fairly stable defense demand, give this portion of the electronics industry one of the brightest outlooks in the nation's economic picture, at present so splashed with light and shadow.

Sales Drop Reported

Sales of TV sets and many home appliances are down from last year, and inventories are heavy, although some of the TV companies here say rather smugly that they are in a better position than the auto industry because they played the production side of the game more cautiously. Plant shutdowns and layoffs are sprinkled through that part of the industry that deals with the consumer. And price cutting at the retail level is notable.

Some of the companies here have full lines. They make TV and radio and also ranges, refrigerators, built-in ovens, washing machines. Others specialize, say in just TV and radio. In both categories, most supply both the consumer and industry and the military, making up in industrial and defense sales. Some show curious deviations in the ratio of profits to sales.

Motorola reports higher sales but slightly lower earnings in the first quarter of this year. Zenith Radio reports both sales and earnings lower. Admiral, with a drop in sales, reports higher first quarter profits.

Industry spokesmen have a number of explanations for the slump in TV set sales, especially of the larger sets. The consumer may be playing it cautious just now, disturbed by recession talk, or he may already have all the time payments he can handle.

'Color Scare' Planned

Some in the industry blame "another color scare," like the one late in 1953 that chilled the Christmas sales of black and white sets. That expectation of color supplanting black and white failed to stand up, and late in 1954 the customers were back buying again. And 1955 has gone down as a record year. Now there's big talk again of color TV finally getting off the ground this fall or next year at the latest.

Rough going in the industry has led to a number of mergers and to the folding of smaller companies. About 25 have dropped out in the last three years, a number just recently. The top 10 are capturing a higher percentage of the total business. Some here predict that this year will see 7,400,000 sets produced — a drop of 300,000 from last year — but that the 10 largest manufacturers will make 6,230,000 and the next 10 will produce 1,000,000, leaving only 170,000 to be made by the remaining 30 others in the field.

The electronics industry as a whole, despite any stumbling now and then by one of its divisions dealing with the fickle public, looks for steady growth. Leaders estimate it will do a six billion dollar business this year, compared with 300 million in 1939. Defense needs will take about half of this year's total, and commercial and industrial purchasing of electronic production will come to around 800 million.

Annual Girl Scout Day Camp Slated

Final plans are being made for the opening of the Girl Scout Day Camp, it was announced today. Deadline for registration is June 18.

The camp, as in former years, will be held at the Barks Woods Day Camp site on Barks Rd. Dates and hours are: June 25, 27 and 29, and July 2, 5 and 6 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. In the event of rain the day will be made up.

Miss Wilda Cunningham, field director, will be in charge, assisted by a staff which is now nearing completion. Pre-camp training is now being conducted at the camp site by Miss Cunningham and Mrs. Joe Bresler.

General purpose of the Day Camp is to help each girl realize the fun and possibilities of an outdoor experience. Activities include campcraft, outdoor cooking, hiking, nature lure, singing games, folk songs and simple dramatics.

The Girl Scout Council is a member agency of the Marion Community Foundation.

14 at Penitentiary Are Injected With Live Cancer Cells

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Fourteen Ohio Penitentiary inmates have been injected with live cancer cells in the first phase of a major study of the disease.

Warden Ralph W. Alvis said Dr. Alice Moore and Dr. Chester M. Southam of the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York administered the injections Thursday.

Alvis said 134 inmates had volunteered to participate in the research program. Ohio State University researchers will examine the 14 daily.

A spokesman for the Cancer Foundation said the volunteers will be in no serious danger. He explained that any cancer injection which might take effect would spread slowly and remain in the immediate area of the inoculation.

Doctors said the research program may provide information as to how the non-cancerous individual's body reaction kills off foreign cancer cells transplanted into it.

The 14 receiving injections are between 25 and 55 years old. They had sentences ranging up to life.

Alvis said the inmates got no special treatment "because the doctors want it that way in their study."

European Editor Heard

Kiwanis Speaker Warns Of Communist Threats

A noted European editor, author and educator who is currently on a lecture tour through the mid-west, Karlis Leyasmeyer, was guest speaker at the Marion Kiwanis Club weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at Hotel Harding

He is a field representative of International Christian Leadership, Inc, a non-political and non-sectarian movement of American government, business, professional and educational leaders for the promotion of sound leadership

A NATIVE OF Latvia, he lived in Russia, saw the Communist revolution in 1917, returned to independent Latvia for his education, earning a doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Riga and did postgraduate work in England and Germany

A first-hand authority on the Soviet system, communist strategy and world problems, he spoke on "New Soviet Policy and the Outlook for the Future"

Speaking of the Russian country, Mr Leyasmeyer pointed out that two things have not changed there, the goal of communist conquest of the whole world and the principles of communism

The principles of communism are broken down into four divisions, political, economic, the field of ideals and the social field, he said The political side means they must crush any non-communist government, the economic is the abolition of all private property, their field of ideals concerns religion and independence being washed out of people's minds, and the social field is the classless society in which not only real but also potential enemies must be liquidated

IN ORDER TO bring about these things, he explained the Russians promote artificial famine, labor camps and secret police organizations

He told his audience that 60 million people have been liquidated in Russia

The changes in the country are that Stalin was ruthless toward his own communists with over 80 per cent of the top communists being executed, and a three-pronged strategy is being carried out He explained these include a coexistence attitude, military might and to take over without force the border countries

He pointed out that Asia is the Russians' target now and Africa is the next goal

Mr Leyasmeyer discussed what we in the United States are facing and what we should do about it He explained that 40 per cent of the world is in flames and 30 per cent is in smoke, or in other words 70 per cent of the world is communistic The other 30 per cent is infiltrated.

ONE BILLION people, he said, are under communist control, there are 22,000 card carrying communists in the United States and a half million United States people are connected with communism

Why have communists succeeded? He answered this by explaining that they have capitalized on colonial imperialism, unemployment and slums He added that the spiritual-moral rebirth is the only stand against communism

Mr Leyasmeyer was introduced by Rev J B Holloway, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church

Guests included Col Don Renwick, just recently returned to this country from Ankara, Turkey, Ed Sullivan of Los Angeles, Calif, James Alabeck, Rev Warren Lindstrom, W E Law and James McBride, all of Marion

Hearing Is Postponed In Baby Beating Case

CHICAGO (AP) — Hearing for David A Deuble, 27, accused of slapping his infant son and fracturing the baby's skull, has been continued to Dec 27 in family court

Deuble, an architecture student at suburban Evanston, is charged with contributing to the dependency of a minor for allegedly hitting the child, Karl, March 16 when the boy was 16 days old

If convicted of the contributing charge, Deuble could lose custody of his son.

A hearing scheduled for Thursday was continued when the court learned the baby has been hospitalized. The nature of his illness was not made known

The case twice was postponed in Evanston Municipal Court where an assault charge is pending Authorities said Deuble told them he struck the infant because his crying interfered with the father's sleep

Major Visual Hazard, Opthalmologist Says

Wrap-Around Windshields Assailed

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

CHICAGO (AP)—An eye specialist today assailed wrap-around windshields in autos as a visual "hazard of the first magnitude."

"All basic optical principles have been completely ignored" in this windshield design, said Dr. Dupont Guerry, opthalmologist of the Medical College of Virginia, Richmond, Va.

He said they could cause driver fatigue that might indirectly result in accidents, and called them "the most blatant example" of "allowing style and so-called beauty of design to supercede safety and function."

—:—

DR. GUERRY SAID the windows distort vision from a prismatic effect, increase glare by the way light is focused, and create double vision and ghost images. Chrome trimmings exaggerate the problem, he said.

He was one of 11 physicians discussing medical aspects of highway accidents and means to reduce deaths and injuries, at the close of the American Medical Assn's 105th annual meeting.

Highway accidents are a medical problem because they kill some 35,000 persons a year and injure another 1¼ millions, the physicians said.

HIGHLIGHTS of their suggestions of methods to reduce the toll:

A committee of eye experts should evolve uniform eye tests for drivers' licenses, because the various state tests now are "a hodgepodge." This committee could consult auto makers on visibility designs. The auto makers "are at last becoming safety conscious"—Dr. Guerry.

People eventually should be willing to agree to periodic medical check-up to keep their drivers' licenses—Dr. Seward Miller, U.S. Public Health Service, Washington, D.C.

Autos should be designed around the human driver, "with instruments and controls considered as extensions of his nervous system and body appendages," rather than sitting him in it "without due regard for his requirements and capabilities," said Dr. Ross McFarland, Harvard School of Public Health, Boston.

ANY CONTROLS unnecessarily hard to reach and operate, instruments difficult to read, seats inducing poor posture, or any unnecessary obstruction to vision may contribute to accidents, or increase fatigue, Dr. McFarland said.

But human error is very important, he said, for a "man drives as he lives." More study is needed to learn why some people have more than their share of accidents. Needed too is better training of young drivers.

Seat belts look convincing for increased safety, but more studies are needed to complete factual knowledge about them. "death spots" on highways should be eliminated. Better first-aid training of doctors could help save lives and permanent disabilities. Some auto makers "deserve great praise for their realistic approach" to preventing injuries—Dr. Harold Elliott, McGill University, Montreal, neuro-surgeon.

MEDICAL MEN can help gather data on what causes injuries and fatalities and how to find safety engineering answers — Dr. Jacob Kulowski, orthopedist, Saint Joseph, Mo.

Auto makers, police, safety organizations and others deserve credit for safety measures that have drastically reduced the death rate per millions of miles driven since 1925. Speed and drunken driving are main factors in deaths and injuries, said Dr. Fletcher D. Woodward, Charlottesville, Va.

Safety belts and body harnesses could help prevent injuries and save lives; so can crash paddings on dashboards, collapsible steering wheels, safety locks on doors, removal of projecting knobs and buttons, firm anchorage of seats, perhaps higher backs on seats to prevent whip-lash neck injuries in collisions from behind, Dr. Woodward said.

The first three technical training schools for enlisted women in the Navy were: Radioman, Madison, Wis.; Yeoman, Stillwater, Okla., and Storekeeper, Bloomington, Ind.

The London, England, metropolitan area has 8,300,000 people.

City Engineer On Probation

Hearing Deficiency Is Cited by Ireland

Mayor Gale D. Ireland today placed City Engineer John V. Ruth on probation for 90 days, after which time a decision will be made as to whether he will continue to hold his present position.

Announcement of the mayor's proposal was made by Safety-Service Director R. Guy Bigelow.

He said the mayor and Mr. Ruth had reached an agreement that Mr. Ruth should buy a hearing aid immediately to aid him in the performance of his duties.

Mr. Bigelow added that Mr. Ruth's retention as city engineer will depend on his performance during the 90-day period.

He also said "that due to Mr. Ruth's hearing deficiency, we did not feel the city was getting the full benefit of his experience and knowledge as an engineer."

This action was decided upon because of Mr. Ruth's long service of more than 30 years to the city and because of his approaching eligibility for retirement, Mr. Bigelow said.

Thirty per cent of the WAVES in World War II were assigned to Naval aviation.

Reminder for a Legislature

Ohio's new state school board, feeling its way along the dark, rough paths of statewide school administration should write a memo to future Ohio Assemblies.

The memo would say:

"Let's have no more hypocritical takeoffs in this state on the miracle of the loaves and fishes."

The first takeoff was in the 150-million-dollar bond issue for state buildings. Ohio legislators angled successfully for school support in the statewide referendum on this money measure by dangling a few million dollars out of the educational portion before needy local districts in need of funds.

Voters did not discover until later that this bait had a hook in it; that the local districts would get no money outright; that state universities would be the only real beneficiaries of the bond issue.

The second takeoff was a few million more dollars voted for emergency school aid in local districts when the legislature met in 1955. This gave every harassed school board member in Ohio the illusion that help was on the way.

Nothing is on the way but disillusionment. For every dollar of emergency aid, there are five applications, with as many more on the way. For every dollar with a string attached under the state bond issue law, there will be just as many applicants. Most of them will be turned down.

The state of Ohio does not have the kind of money needed to rescue local districts being swamped by population increases. It should quit leading local school boards to believe help is on the way.

There will be no miracle of loaves and fishes in Ohio. People who expect Ohio children to be educated had better bring their own bread and meat.

They can expect little or nothing from Columbus and less than that from Washington, which proverbially spends half of every dollar it collects for handling the other half.

Too Much Candor?

An unfavorable public reaction from detailed information about President Eisenhower's operation and convalescence is not shared by Americans who understand the importance of candor in these matters.

But they must concede some Americans are shocked and disgusted by the relation of things once held to be too personal for discussion either inside or outside a doctor's office. This may explain why so many Americans tolerate the secrecy and mumbo-jumbo which a medical doctor complained about in last week's Saturday Evening Post.

It is what they expect. It is what they want. They would be offended by anything else. They do not want to hear about or to talk about intimate details of their illnesses and operations. They do not want to hear about or to hear others talk about the details of presidential illnesses and operations.

But Americans who understand what lack of candor might do are impressed with the outstanding job that has been done by Press Secretary Hagerty with the cooperation of medical doctors. For the first time in the political history of the United States, no one murmurs darkly, "There are some things the people aren't being told."

Instead, some squeamish ones have been muttering, "There are some things the people have no right to hear."

The era of mumbo-jumbo, dark hints, and "what they don't know won't hurt 'em" is on its way out. The first citizen has shown the way

International RFC

If Benjamin A. Javits were not a lawyer and economist in New York City with many sound ideas to his credit, his plan for getting rid of foreign aid would be shrugged off without a second thought in Washington.

If you are one of millions wondering why U.S. taxpayers should underwrite anything but military aid to countries which give back nothing in return but a friendly attitude — if they feel like it — this is the Javits plan:

Congress would authorize an International Development Corp. and give it 100 million dollars for capitalization. This would be repaid to the U.S. Treasury over a period of years by sale of stock to investors here and abroad; i.e., to persons and enterprises who have something at stake, such as an export market for manufactures and services.

The International Development Corp. would have funds and counsel available for assistance to sound enterprises all over the world. Obviously, it would be interested in protecting free enterprise against the Communist conspiracy. But it would not be interested in giving away money on the off-chance of buying a hundred dollars' worth of good will with a million dollars' worth of other people's money.

Mr. Javits thinks it would work like the Reconstruction Finance Corp., which distributed domestic aid under the businesslike leadership of the late Jesse Jones. As it turned out, RFC was self-supporting, because its administrator had a strong aversion to giving away other people's money without a good prospect of getting it back. That would be the main intent of the International Development Corp.

Security Errors

By David Lawrence

Cain Attacks Fail To Consider Full Picture

Former U.S. Sen. Harry Cain of the state of Washingotn says there have been tragic mistakes made in the handling of the security-risk program, and he doubts whether any such program is really needed. Mistakes, however, in handling dismissals or suspensions of government employes have cropped up from time to time in government procedures, and many of them happened long before the Communist menace developed. Even Mr. Cain, well-intentioned though he is, has himself made some rather serious mistakes of act in his crusade to discredit the security-risk program of the government, as he poohpoohs Communist efforts to infiltrate the government here. Doubtless, they were unintentional mistakes, but so are the mistakes of the bureaucrats whom he criticizes.

Lawrence

Thus, on May 5 last, Mr. Cain made a speech in New York City before the National Trade Union Conference on Civil Rights. Speaking of the administration's security-risk program, he said:

"In three years of effort, we have found no spies or traitors, saboteurs or Communists in positions of trust. Perhaps they are there, but we have not uncovered them with the machinery at our command."

Mr. Cain overlooked the case of Joseph S. Petersen Jr., who is now in jail serving a sentence for having passed on to an agent of a European government some of the most highly confidential codes of the United States government.

For nearly five years prior to December 1952, Petersen was doing this and was caught in 1954 only when the Eisenhower administration put through its checking system under the existing security-risk program. Some of the codes stolen were of such a highly important nature that they were not introduced at the trial but were shown in chambers to the judge. Before he was arrested, Mr. Petersen used to write letters to newspapers vehemently protesting that the security-risk program was unfair and unnecessary.

MR. CAIN DOES NOT have access to the files of the Department of Justice, so he does not know how many persons who had had bad records of dealing with foreign governments or their agents may have been found and discharged without publicity.

Sometimes, testimony obtained by state governments and city police bureaus through tapped telephone wires cannot be used as evidence in federal courts and hence prosecutions are not pressed but the employes in questions are dismissed.

Another serious error made by former Sen. Cain concerns the unfortunate case of the Air Force analyst whom he publicly defended a few weeks ago because there was such a long delay in adjudicating the case by the Air Force.

It will be recalled that the analyst, after a long period of suspension, advertised for a job in the classified-advertising columns of a Washington newspaper and was contacted last February by a member of the Soviet embassy staff.

Promptly, the former air force employe told his attorney about it and arranged a meeting with the Russian for a few days later. Full information on the interview was relayed to the FBI. Here is what former Sen. Cain said about the episode in his May 5 speech:

"The Russian was smart in assuming that he had found his pigeon in an American whose government would not hire him or fire him. The Russian had reason to believe that his intended American prey was not likely to be employed by any other American until our subject's government had decided what to do with the body."

From the foregoing, it could be inferred that the Air Force analyst unbosomed himself to the Russian and told him all about his status as a suspended security risk. But the Air Force analyst did nothing of the kind. He didn't reveal anything about his own case to the Russian. This information comes from reliable sources in our own government.

Then why does Mr. Cain say, "The Russian had reason to believe that his intended American prey was not likely to be employed by any other American until our subject's government had decided what to do with the body"?

THE RUSSIANS probably didn't know of the American's status or anything about the case because nothing was said to him by the Air Force analyst, either.

Mr. Cain, in his speech, was just a little free in his speculation and probably didn't realize he was embarrassing the man he was defending. For if the Air Force man had been as indiscreet as to advertise in a newspaper for a job and then to tell a stranger — a Russian — about his intimate relations with the Defense Department here, he would hardly have been reinstated later, as he was, even to a "nonsensitive" position in the government.

It must be concluded, therefore, that sometimes crusaders for civil liberties make mistakes, as do government bureaucrats.

In the long run, the Klaus Fuchses, the Alger Hisses and the Petersens are caught because a slow-moving security system is better than none.

This correspondent wrote at the outset of the present administration that it was a mistake to abandon the type of central review board which the Truman administration had set up. But since that time the Supreme Court has cast doubt on whether any central board would be possible under existing law.

A better coordination by departmental boards and security divisions is necessary and should be attainable so as to reduce mistakes to the minimum.

Every year, thousands of persons throughout the country are indicted and then acquitted in court trials, but the stigma remains. No way has been devised to avoid this.

Government security cases, on the other hand, are never publicized unless the accused, through his attorney, brings the case out in the open to try to get public support. When this happens, the government's side of the case rarely is revealed because it is based on confidential information.

Weeks To Go

By TRUMAN TWILL

If this weren't Corset and Brassiere Week, Dairy Month and a lot of other special events, I'd make up some of my own.

I'll make up a few anyway. Special weeks, months and days finally have become so common it is possible to make light of them without being accused of malice.

In all seriousness, there should be a special week for people to be kind to people who used to work for newspapers. It always turns out upon investigation they were newspaperboys, but they never volunteer this information until a quarter of an hour of shop talk has been wasted.

A month would be none too long to do honor to the principle of Honesty Among Politicians, another special cause that has been neglected. It has as much merit as Bow Tie Week, which is dead ahead, Swim For Health Week, or International White Bread For Health Week.

There could very well be a National Let's Not Worry About Anything Day, to offset some of the damage done the year-around by Americans in high places, especially, who worry about everything every day of the year.

I Feel Fine Week could be developed into a big occasion, with help from the mass psychologists and the authors of How To Have Peace of Mind Though Living books. This one could be timed to coincide with All The Doctors Are On Vacation Month, which should command the support of the American Medical Association.

June, as it happens, is National Ragweed Control Month, among other things. There are many things that need controlling besides ragweed. National Keep The Roadsides Tidy Month would be a worthy addition to the list.

June, also is American Fresh-Water Pearl Month, and if this confuses you it would add nothing to your confusion to celebrate American Iced Tea in Large Glasses With Plenty of Ice Month. There are as many pearls to be found in iced tea as in fresh water.

August would be a fine time to get something started about Sun Suits For Men at Work Week, to pave the way for a longer period at some later time. There might be a whole year to thump the tub for More Comfortable Clothing For Males.

A day that should go like hot cakes is Let's Not Mention Russia Day. Although it would have no real effect on the phobia that the Russians are the only thing worth talking about any more, it would plant the seed of an idea that might grow up and bear fruit in 50 years.

Baldness Is Fashionable Week would command sympathetic attention, along with We Can't All Look Like Marilyn Monroe Week for the ladies.

For the children, there could be We Can Eat as We Please week, to relieve tension among tots who are always being hounded to ingest goop that is good only for the people who have it to sell.

Coming back to the beginning, though, this really is Corset and Brassiere Week, which is not a masterpiece of timing, in view of the fact it's the good old summertime when millions of corset and brassiere wearers yearn to let themselves melt like butter in the hot sun—and do.

But you have to take your weeks where you can find them, and this one was open. But no more so than it is for any of us who would like to make a special occasion of the commonplace.

This also could be Let's Be What Comes Naturally Week, to be followed in short order by a week to build more comfortable jails—There Is a Cell In Your Future Week.

The Lunatic

Advertising and You

By Frank Tripp

Advertising is as essential a part of American life as are the jobs and professions of the people. It has been the biggest auxiliary factor in the development of today's economy more work, more pay, more luxury, more leisure.

We need to take periodic account of the importance of advertising in our daily lives.

Advertising is a market maker. It decreases consumer prices because it increases volume. Volume makes work for people establishes the buying power for the products that everybody makes and the services everybody gives.

Advertising even creates the market for the non-advertiser, the "me too" who lives off the advertising of others, or because of his proximity to them. Unless he deals in products sold exclusively by himself, he cannot truthfully say that somebody's advertising did not create his market, and sustain it.

ADVERTISING is an industry builder. The simplest of examples is a tin can, a bottle or a food package. Once within memory mother canned, preserved and baked her own. What she did laboriously, today through advertising gives work to millions of people and leisure hours to every housewife.

I can remember, as a boy clerk in a grocery store, when women who would accept a tin can of corn or tomatoes, a loaf of baker's bread, were looked upon as gypsies by the whole neighborhood.

Pickles that came in bottles, crackers that came in packages, almost any foods in cans, were suspected items. The generation lived out of firkins, barrels and bins in grocers' stores. The milkman dipped from a milk can into the customer's pail. Sanitation was pooh-pooked.

Somebody had to sell the tin can, the bottle, the brand name package to the housewife. Did he do it on beauty and convenience? He did not; not those days. He had to do it on price and economy: for money was scarce, the people self reliant and skeptical.

IT COST MORE to put 100 pounds of crackers into one-pound sealed packages than to dump them into barrels to grow stale. The only answer was to popularize them and sell more packages by making people want clean, crisp packaged crackers. Advertise them that, or charge more.

The canner and bottler had to sell freshness and preservability as a saving. They had to do it at low price and fast, to give them volume, or they would go broke. Waiting for people to learn for themselves was too slow.

Consumer food advertising was born. Grocers had carried only a card in the local paper: "Simon Stamp, Fine Groceries. We have a telephone." Now he had known items to sell, brands that people trusted.

Look at the food ads today contemplate the colossal industries and the dependable names behind them.

THE FEW pioneers who started making, filling and selling cans, bottles and food containers have grown to millions now. Women have been emancipated from weary hours of kitchen drudgery. Brand names guarantee quality, purity, price. Advertising did it.

Trace back almost any familiar item in our homes. Outside a few specialties, you'll find, from autos to lipstick, that advertising created the volume that gave them survival and the acceptable price at which they may be bought.

In some way, advertising ensures most workers' jobs — and must be depended upon to sustain Americcan's high standard of living.

Don't be blind to advertising. Read it, make it work for you and save you money.

Somewhere it will offer what you want at what you want to pay.

Unfair Practice

By RAYMOND MOLEY

The agreement publicly entered into by the respective chairman of the two national parties, to adhere to a "Code for Fair Campaign Practices," was taken by many with a generous measure of salt.

A glaring example of unfair play is before us in a practice of staff members of congressional committees leaking smears of the administration to the press. The Interior Department is the principal object of this practice.

In the course of the hearings on the so-called "Al Sarena" mining patents there was published a report that implicated the President. The assertion was that a man in Oregon had interceded in behalf of the Al Sarena people in a letter to the President and that the President had written a "Dear Doug" notation on the letter and had sent it to Secretary McKay. When challenged by Sen. Goldwater to produce the letter, the subcommittee staff failed to produce it.

Since the hearings the Al Serena case has been tried in all possible ways, in the press and otherwise by Senator Neuberger and others. The whole matter has been twisted and misrepresented to cast a cloud upon former Secretary McKay and Undersecretary Clarence A. Davis. Meanwhile for weeks and weeks, I, for one, have been waiting for a report of the subcommittee.

Suddenly, on May 30, The New York Times published what was purported to be an exclusive story embodying the gist of the majority report. One very curious feature of The Times article was that it failed to name the majority members of the subcommittee. (The Chairman was Sen. Kerr Scott of North Carolina, but the spokesman and chief inquisitor was Sen. Neuberger.)

Thus, the minority of the subcommittee was unable to place the defense into the record at the same time that the contents of the report were leaked to the press.

On another occasion, almost the same method was used to injure the responsible heads of the Interior Department by another leak.

On May 21, there was published a story which stated that "Democratic members of a House subcommittee (the Chudoff subcommittee) have approved a report calling on President Eisenhower to fire Undersecretary of Interior Clarence A. Davis and Assistant Secretary Fred A. Aahndahl."

This premature and unauthorized leak, it was charged, was in violation of a specific and unanimous agreement by the subcommittee not to release the report for publication before the minority had a chance to prepare and submit its report at the same time.

Baccalaureate by Example

("A Seeing-Eye dog, Banda, led Michael Martucci for his degree at St. John's University graduation exercises."—News item.)

Pooch, you highlighted all the June graduation exercises. No message from any dean, professor, or college president measured up to the one I got from you.

Nothing in the millions of words delivered on all the college campuses of America touched more people than the testament to faith, devotion and dependability flashed by you as you led your blind master through his graduation exercises. Here in the picture of a sightless youth and his Seeing-Eye dog was the baccalaureate of 1956.

-:-

YOU RATE A DEGREE, pooch, and your master should get a cum laude for high courage and triumph over a terrible handicap. Somehow I looked at you both in the news pictures, and you were standouts not only over all the college kids but notables of the world being awarded superdooper honorary degrees with pomp and fanfare.

I read a lot of speeches about the great qualities and performances of illustrious human beings winning the honorary bestowals, but the performance of you and your master was more inspiring.

I didn't notice that any humans had consecreated their lives to the constant companionship and guidance of a boy walking in the darkness.

-:-

"CORNY," YOU WOULD say to this. A dog gives all instinctively, and in return for a pat on the back, a smile and a voice. It asks little more. Tributes don't mean much. You are "doin' what comes naturally," as the song says.

If you understood graduation-day doings you would probably say, "Diplomas, parchments, degrees, lofty speeches" You can have 'em. I get more of a kick leading my master safely across a street."

You would fall asleep if you heard the speeches, and dream, not of sheepskins but of a dog biscuit. But you would snap awake at a movement by your master, a blind man there among graduates knowing no affliction or handicap.

So here's a degree for you, Banda. . . Doctor of Devotion. And an honorary one, Prince of Pals.

All pooches are wonderful but a Seeing-Eye dog is the most inspiring of all, furnishing a lesson and example for man and beast. Take good care of Mike In my book you two are the graduation day notables of the year.

A BIG PAPER corporation says it has perfected a suit of paper, which can be thrown away when dirtied or worn. . . ("Jake, you made the pants too thin!"). . We assume a paper coat will be baggy. . . We would never be able to leave our pants on the back of a chair for fear we would get up and find the wife had used them for shelf paper

Billy Pearson and Vincent Price seemed pretty astonished when, tying for the $64,000 on that TV show, they were told to come back next week. . . And so was the audience, which seemed to be convinced they deserved to split it. . . Pearson, the jockey, surprises everybody when he comes through in a photo finish with Price, an extra erudite gent of the highest education.

Harry Legore, who died in Maryland the other day, was one of the greatest fullbacks in Yale football history.

Woman in Illinois Is Working as Full Time Hod Carrier

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A Decatur woman with a rare occupation for a female is winding up two years as a full time hod carrier.

Mrs. L. C. Blumenstock got into the business because her husband, a plasterer, had difficulty keeping a man on the job. At the start, she intended to help out only until her husband could find a helper. She been at it now two full years.

On the job Mrs. Blumenstock wears work pants, a sweatshirt and heavy shoes, the usual garb of a hod carrier. On her hands, however, she wears rubber gloves.

"I don't want to get dishwater hands," she explained.

Her husband works from a pair of adjustable metal stilts, thus saving Mrs. Blumenstock the work of having to move around the usual heavy scaffolding.

"It sure makes the work easier on my wife," Blumenstock said.

Contestants are Joyce Phelps, Betty Slob and Alma Turner. Judging is scheduled for 7 p.m. in Club Co-Ed at the "Y," and will be on poise and personality, evening dress, swimming suit and talent. Judging is patterned after rules for the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City, N.J.

Paulin, chairman of the contest. Judges are Guy Bigelow, Marion safety-service director, Miss Edna Dutton of The Marion Star, and Arthur Martin of radio station WMRN.

Jaycees 'Air Fair' To Open With Dancing

Final plans for the annual "Air Fair" sponsored by the Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce which gets under way tonight were announced today.

Arrangements for the fifth annual event which begins with a dance at Marion Municipal Airport were revealed by Bud Pieracini, chairman of the aviation committee which planned the local observance.

Airplane rides for the public, plane displays, and a converging of airplanes from Ohio and neighboring states upon Marion Municipal Airport Sunday are highlights of the "Air Fair."

Tonight's dance, a round and square dance, is scheduled for 9 p.m. in a hangar at the Airport and the public is invited.

Beginning at noon Saturday, airplane rides will be offered to the public. Rides will be held throughout Saturday and Sunday afternoons at a cost of one cent a pound and $1 minimum. Private planes capable of holding three passengers will take riders on a 15-minute flight over the city.

Sunday morning, 100 or more planes carrying passengers from throughout Ohio and from nearby stater are expected to visit the local Airport. The visitors will be served breakfast from 7 to 11 a.m. Prizes will be awarded to the youngest, and oldest pilots landing here and to the pilot flying the longest distance.

Planes of various types and the local Civilian Defense truck will be on display Saturday and Sunday.

Parking of visiting aircraft will be handled by the Marion Pilots Association.

Three Youths, 17, Cited by Officers

Three 17-year-old boys were cited to appear before juvenile officer Sgt. Virgil Campbell on charges of reckless driving and having an insufficient muffler on a car and cursing a police officer Thursday night by city police.

One of the youths was picked up on W. Center St. after police said they saw him driving in a reckless manner and nearly collide with a number of vehicles.

The other two were picked up in a car on E. Center St. Arresting officers said that they first talked to the driver of the car and finding that it had no muffler ordered the car towed in. At this point the other youth cursed the policeman and so both were cited to appear before the juvenile officer, police said.

Child Is Bitten by Dog, Requires Hospital Aid

Jerry Leasure, 20-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Leasure, of near Radnor, was bitten by the family dog Thursday, according to Sheriff Glenn Obenour.

The child, the report said, was found unconscious in the garage at the Leasure home. He suffered lacerations of the left ear and temple and was taken to Marion's General Hospital where several stitches were required to close the wounds.

Youth's Nose Broken

A nose injury suffered at the Ashley-Waldo Little League Baseball game at Waldo Thursday night put an Ashley player, Kenneth Wayne Barber, 12, in Marion General Hospital. A seventh grade pupil in Elm Valley School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barber of northeast of Ashley.

Committee

Since they were based only on real property valuation, Mr. Dowler's figures varied widely from the estimate of damages submitted by four property owners in the affected area.

The estimates given by the owners to Ralph Williams attempted to assess losses in business operation, which of course is an entirely different base than real estate valuation.

Mr. Williams said that owners of the Marion Milling Co. on N. Prospect St. told him that if they were completely cut off from access to their plant, their damage would be about $1,250,000. If they retained access and had to make adjustments of the plant for any new access route provided, their damage would be about $150,000.

Just off of N. State St., Karl Dune of the Merchant's Transfer and Storage Co. estimated damage to this property (because of being cut off from direct access from N. State St.) at $137,000.

A spokesman for the Bruno Wholesale Co. said damage to their property would be $250,000 to $500,000.

Frank Foster of the Houghton Sulky Co. estimated loss to his company at $100,000, Mr. Williams said.

Total of value placed on their properties by these four companies then would be $637,000 at the lower estimates or $1,767,000 at the higher estimate. In either case, the property owners' estimates apparently are considerably different from the valuation contained on the tax books.

—:—

MR. WILLIAMS also pointed out that Mill St. as it now stands is completely owned by the New York Central Railroad. He said the railroad would expect full remuneration for this "valuable property."

Mr. Dowler pointed out that there might be some question as to whether the railroad still retains sole rights to Mill St. since it has been used as a public street and maintained by the city for more than 21 years.

All this culminated a discussion started by Mr. Williams who said that he felt the committee had not yet found to his satisfaction what the damage claims would be.

Prior to Mr. Dowler's report there was considerable discussion on this point. Richard Lister said as he understood it the properties affected could be condemned by the state and construction work could proceed while the courts were deciding the damages. Mr. Dowler said this essentially was true.

He also pointed out that the damages expressed by the property owners may not be granted 100 per cent by the courts because some of the affected properties might be provided with alternate access routes.

Mrs. William Diem said that the plaintiff in damage claims always ask for much more than they really expect to get. She added that she felt the committee could not determine the exact damages and shouldn't hazard a guess on them. She noted that the committee had been told by state highway department officials that if the projects were started and it was found that damages were exorbitant, the project would be stopped before any actual construction began.

John Corwin questioned Mrs. Diem as to whether she thought the voters in his ward would approve a bond issue for the improvements as proposed in the arterial report.

Mrs. Diem said she felt they would because it is to provide the greatest good for the greatest number of people at the least cost.

—:—

IN THE DISCUSSION on the proposed alternate plan for an expressway to parallel the Pennsylvania Railroad right of way, William Hamor said he had discussed it with state department of highway officials at the division office in Delaware.

He said they told him that they had tentative plans to by-pass the city to the east and also had made a number of sketches and photographs for an expressway route along the Pennsylvania Railroad right-of-way.

He said they further told him that if the city couldn't raise its share of the costs for the expressway plan that it needed only to obtain an offer of help from the railroads and the state would accept the proposal.

He further declared he was "very much for the people of Marion and for what is best for their interests." But he said he feels the proposed plans for underpasses on State and Prospect Sts. would be an eyesore to the town and would not be the ultimate answer to "our traffic problems."

The one-two-three order of the deliberations as contained in Mr. Bigelow's motion and amended by Mr. Lister was as follows: First, discuss whether to accept or reject the recommendations of the arterial reports; second if they are accepted, can we as a community afford it; and third, if they are not accepted, do we have an alternate plan and what is it? The motion carried by majority voice vote after considerable discussion during which Mr. Dowler ruled that as he interpreted the motion it merely established the order of discussion but would not in any way limit discussion on any point. (The committee previously had decided to restrict itself to deliberations on only those recommendations contained in the report and possible alternate plans for improvements for Routes 23 and 4 through the city).

There was a motion at the beginning of the meeting to limit general discussion to 30 minutes which lost by a majority voice vote.

AT ONE POINT in the discussions, John Courtright Jr., said he felt that there should be some plan devised which would be acceptable to the voters of Marion. He said he felt that the committee should go to the citizens and ask them for "X-number of dollars" and if this is approved by the voters, then go to the state highway department and tell it that is the amount of money the voters in the city approved for the improvements. From this point on the state then could determine the best solution for the city, he said.

Mr. Dowler pointed out that similar improvements have been discussed in the city for many years but this is the first time that the state has come to the city and said it had a certain amount of money available to the city and would provide it for improvements if the city would but decide what it wants and so inform the state highway department.

Mr. Courtright said he didn't feel the voters would accept this because they had turned down many other desirable improvements in the past.

Mr. Dowler said he did not agree. He said the voters may be a little slow to react to a situation but if they are fully informed, understand an issue and believe it is for the good of the community they will approve it at the polls.

Study at Muskingum College, twilight school at Ohio State University, summer and extension work at Ohio Northern University rewarded Mrs. Birdie Adams with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Education at the annual commencement exercises last Sunday at Ohio Northern University.

In addition to this she found time to rear a family of eight children, keep house, do a full time job of teaching a combined third and fourth grade at the North Main Street School and work weekends and through vacations. The Adams home is at 607 Ballentine Ave.

Hagerty announced that the President will hold separate conferences in his hospital room Monday with Vice President Nixon and Secretary of State Dulles.

It will be Nixon's first visit with the President since he was taken ill. Dulles saw Eisenhower briefly Thursday in the company of West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Confers With Adams

Eisenhower held a 15-minute business conference in his hospital room this morning with his chief aide, Sherman Adams, and the White House secretary, Col. Andrew J. Goodpaster.

Hagerty reported that at the conference the President "disposed of quite a little White House business."

Hagerty said the brief work stint this morning would conclude Eisenhower's business activities until Monday morning.

Explaining, the press secretary said there would be nothing requiring Eisenhower's attention Saturday or Sunday.

Announcement of the winners was made by Rev. C. E. Hershey of Emmanuel Church, director of the Youth for Christ monthly rallies here. The contest, opened with the September rally, was conducted by Rev. James Taylor of the Union Baptist Church and W. A. Hough, pastor of Oak Knoll Baptist Chapel here.

Plans under way for Youth for Christ for next season include the conducting of a Gospel Tent feature during the Marion County Fair and for reopening the regular rallies in September. Rally time is the last Saturday night of each month. The pastors interested in the work will go to Winona Lake July 12 in the interest of the local program.

Columbus Auto Dealer Gets 90-Day Probation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Automobile Dealers' and Salesman's Licensing Board of the Ohio Department of Highway Safety has placed the Roger Dean Chevrolet Co. of Columbus on probation for 90 days.

After a hearing in the case Thursday, W. A. Brandenburg, board president, said Dean's license was suspended, and the suspension was in turn lifted for the probation.

The board did not specify which of the three original charges brought against Dean resulted in the action. The charges were: Failure to carry out stated agreements for purchasers, use of a fictitious name as a power of attorney and issuance of improperly filled out purchase orders.

Marion Area Auto Mishaps

A Marion man was seriously injured in a traffic accident on the Sawyer Rd. south of Marion early today. Four other accidents were reported in Marion County, two by city police.

Listed in "critical" condition in Marion General Hospital following the mishap at 5:19 a.m., 1.2 miles south of Bellefontaine Ave., is Robert L. Shenefield, 24, of 239 S. Main St.

According to patrolmen from the Marion State Highway Patrol Post, Shenefield suffered severe head injuries and lacerations of the left arm.

Shenefield was driver of a car apparently headed north on the Sawyer Rd. which left the road on the left side and struck a tree, patrolmen said.

The car struck the tree with its left front and Shenefield was thrown from the car to the pavement. He was found lying approximately 20 feet from the car, patrolmen reported.

Shenefield's car was demolished. He was taken to Marion General Hospital in Gunder ambulance.

Two Others Reported

Two other mishaps in Marion County were investigated by Marion patrolmen Thursday.

One, a hit-skip accident, occurred at 6:25 p.m. on County Rd. 36, 1.2 miles west of Route 30-S.

Patrolmen said a car driven by Clarence Merwine, 28, of Galion, headed south on County Rd. 36, was struck by an unidentified car which continued on following the collision.

The unidentified vehicle was traveling east on County Rd. 31 and was making a left hand turn onto County Rd. 36, patrolmen reported. Minor damage resulted to both cars.

The remaining accident was a one-car mishap on Route 30-S, 1.5 miles east of Marion, at 9:15 p.m.

A car driven by James Levering, 21, of Prospect, traveling east on Route 30-S, went out of control as he passed another vehicle and left the highway. Levering's car hit a road marker and went into the ditch on the north side, patrolmen said.

Levering was starting to go around another car when he noticed it was making a left hand turn onto the Williamsport Rd., according to patrolmen, and he applied the brakes of his car, losing control. Minor damage resulted to the right rear end of the car.

Bicycle Hits Car

Two minor accidents were reported today by Marion police. One of them was an automobile-bicycle collision which occurred at 2:38 p.m. Wednesday in the 200 block of Carner Ave. but was reported to police only Thursday.

Mrs. Ilo Wymer of 290 Carner Ave. reported to police that her son, Ronald had parked the family car in front of the residence and opened the left front door to get out when an unidentified boy on a bike struck the door. The boy said he was unhurt and went on his way, she told police.

The other accident in the city caused total damage of less than $100 total damage, police estimated.

It said the latest request, made May 11, proposed that arrangements be completed within two months of that date.

Two Truman Aides Will Ask For New Trial

Connelly and Caudle Plan To File Motions In Tax Case July 19

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Attorneys for Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, high officials in the Truman administration convicted of conspiring to help a tax dodger, plan to seek a new trial for their clients July 19, the same date set for sentencing.

The 48-year-old Connelly was White House appointments secretary to former President Truman. Caudle, 52, was head of the Justice Department's tax division. They were convicted by a federal court jury Thursday after it deliberated about nine hours.

Maximum penalty is five years in prison and a $100,000 fine.

Sentencing Set July 19

U.S. District Judge Rubey M. Hulen set July 19 as the date for sentencing. Defense attorneys said they also plan to file a motion for a judgment of acquittal notwithstanding the jury's verdict.

"No comment, boys," was all the trim Connelly would say to newsmen as he hurried from the federal building after hearing the verdict. He appeared grim and tight-lipped.

Caudle, also obviously shocked, refused to talk at first but then said:

"I know I am an innocent man, convicted for something I never did. I will face my God, my sweet children and my friends when my time comes. I have no apologies for anything I have done."

Fired in 1951

Caudle's wife, in the courtroom when the verdict was read, showed no outward emotion. Caudle was fired in 1951 for outside activities deemed in conflict with his government job.

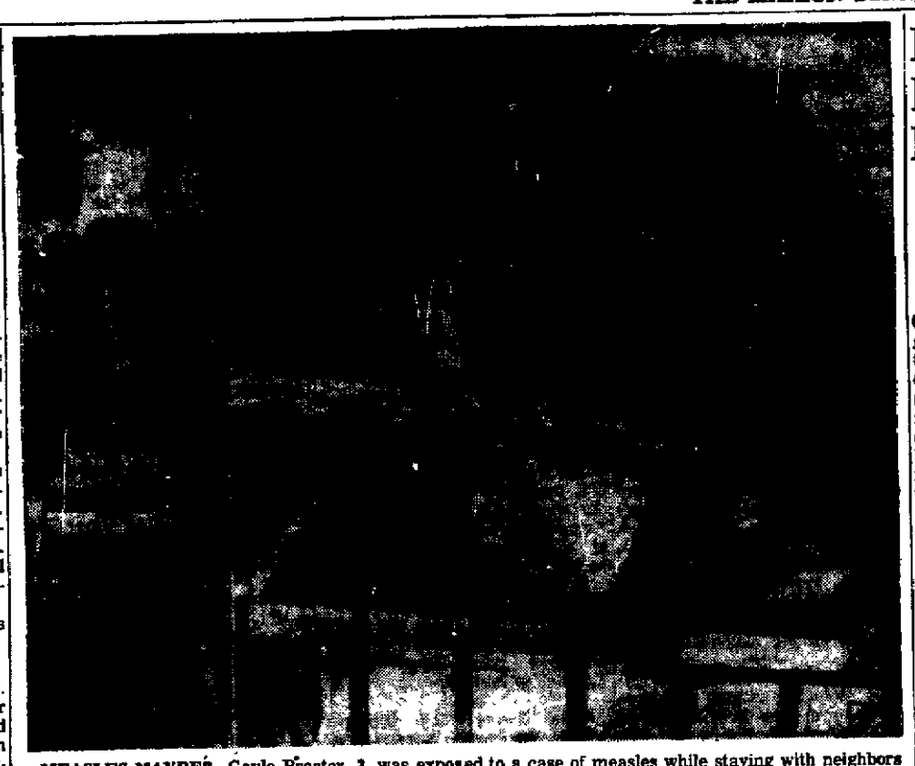
The jury was made up of eight men and four women from rural eastern Missouri.

Caudle, now a lawyer at Wadesboro, N.C., his hometown, and Connelly, New York public relations man, were convicted of conspiring to defraud the government of their official services by trying to sidetrack criminal prosecution of Irving Sachs, St. Louis shoe manufacturer.

Sachs eventually was indicted by a federal grand jury, pleaded guilty to evading $128,721 in income taxes and was fined $40,000. He escaped a prison term on a plea of poor health.

Maj. Gen. Ralph E. Truman of Springfield, Mo., cousin of the former president, signed a new $5,000 bond for Caudle.

Harry I. Schwimmer, attorney for Sachs and now a Puerto Rican businessman, originally was one of the defendants but became ill in court and was granted a mistrial. Government attorneys said Schwimmer would be tried when and if he recovers.



MEASLES MAYBE? Gayle Proctor, 3, was exposed to a case of measles while staying with neighbors when her baby brother was born 10 days ago in Decatur, Ill. Now Gayle can't come home until they make sure that she hasn't got the measles. So that she could see the new baby, her father, Clayton Proctor, set a step ladder at the window. Now she spends a large part of the day looking into the house watching her mother care for the new arrival.

'Mrs. Ohio' Visits Institute Session

Mrs.. Wilford Buth of Worthington, who was chosen Mrs. Ohio in a recent homemaking contest sponsored by the Gas Company, was an added attraction on the closing program of a two-day Food Institute, Thursday night at Harding High School. The school was presented under the sponsorship of the local office of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. Approximately 700 persons attended.

Mrs. Buth, who was a contestant in the national homemaking contest, talked on the advantages of competing in a Mrs. America contest. In the national competition she placed first in the meal planning division. She presented Mrs. Herbert J. Schroeder, Marion county winner in the contest, with a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Mildred Dunn of Columbus discussed tips for better family living and homemaking. Recipes for unusual and tasty dishes, many of which were favorites of former Mrs. America contestants, were distributed. Assisting in the program was Miss Myra Wickline, local Betty Newton.

Activities at Four City Playgrounds To Begin

A full round of summer fun for both young and old will get under way Monday morning with the start of a two month long recreational program at Marion city parks and playgrounds.

Full details of the program were announced today by Paul O'Rourke, city recreation director.

The four playgrounds at which the program of supervised recreation will be held this summer will be Lincoln Park, Glenwood School, George Washington School and Pearl St. School, he said.

There also will be tennis instruction given on the courts at Harding High School, he said.

—:—

THE FOUR playgrounds are the same as those used last year, with one exception, he noted. Last year there was supervised recreation at the Harding High School playground but since this was not well attended, this activity was moved this year to the Pearl St. school, Mr. O'Rourke noted. If attendance is not good at Pearl St. this year, the activity will be moved to some other location again next year, he asserted.

Schedule of supervised activity at the playgrounds will be from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Friday.

On Friday afternoons the entire recreation staff will meet to plan the following week's activities in order that the program may be kept new and interesting to the children, Mr. O'Rourke said.

One of the major parts of the program will be arts and crafts instruction under the direction of Miss Judy Neighbors, he pointed out.

It will consist of an out-door art program in which each child will have an opportunity to integrate art with nature, helping them to think creatively in the hopes they may carry this ability to other experiences in life, Mr. O'Rourke explained.

Included in the arts and crafts program will be such projects as painting, ceremacis, wire and clay sculpturing, weaving, puppets and other design projects.

MISS NEIGHBORS will be at Lincoln Park on Mondays, at Glenwood School on Tuesdays, Pearl St. School on Wednesdays and at George Washington School on Thursdays. Thus the arts and crafts program will be carried on at each school but one day each week, Mr. O'Rourke stated.

The tennis instruction at Harding High School beginning on June 26 will be given on Tuesday, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Mr. O'Rourke said there is no age limit for this instruction and it is a sport anyone may participate in and enjoy for a good many years. Racquets and balls will be furnished for those who do not have their own, he said.

There also will be a softball team organized at each of the playgrounds by the playground supervisor. These teams will be particularly for those boys who are not playing in Little League baseball. A playground league will be formed with inter-playground games to be scheduled, Mr. O'Rourke noted.

Other activities in the playgrounds will include volleyball, croquet, ping pong, football, basketball, badminton, horse-shoe pitching and so on. There will be tournaments in many of these sports in each of the playgrounds. The champion in each at each playground also will compete with the other champions from the other parks to pick a city-wide champion.

THERE ALSO will be a variety of table games such as checkers, monopoly and so on to provide variety and to permit the children to participate in less strenuous activities on the hotter days.

Anyone having any old table games or sports equipment which still is usable is urged to donate it to the recreation program, Mr. O'Rourke said. During the winter, rats, mice and squirrels apparently got into the building where the equipment was stored and destroyed much of it, he explained. The result is there is a shortage of the equipment so badly needed to provide proper recreational activities for the children this summer, he said.

Use of school playgrounds is possible because of the full cooperation of the Board of Education and Robert Brown, school superintendent, he added. Restrooms and drinking fountains are available at each playground.

'Little' Sentences

BALTIMORE (AP)—"I've had no experience serving anything but little jail terms," Robert Lee Daniels wrote in a letter to Judge Court, asking reduction of sentence.

"Twenty years is a long time," the 20-year-old prisoner explained.

The letter found its way into an office file.

Daniels was sentenced last April for assault and attempted robbery.

Haiti Protest Is Answered By Argentina

Rebel Leader Tanco Returned to Political Asylum After Capture

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina's provisional government gave dramatic support to the traditions of political asylum and diplomatic immunity Thursday night. It returned much - sought rebel Gen. Raul Tanco and six other fugitives to the Haitian embassy 4½ hours after machinegunners abducted them and delivered them to the army.

President Pedro Aramburu ordered the return of the rebels as soon as he received an angry protest from Haitian Ambassador Jean Brierre. Although Tanco had been the object of a nationwide hunt as a top leader of Sunday's Peronista-inspired revolt, Aramburu said he was guilty only of political crimes and therefore entitled to the asylum he had reached.

Eluded Dragnet

Brierre smiled relievedly today as he told newsmen his seven charges were safely back in their apartment over the embassy garage. In hiding since the 12-hour Tanco eluded a citywide dragnet and slipped into the sprawling suburban residence before dawn Thursday.

Earlier the rebel leader had been reported in Uruguay. A government source said this was a ruse by followers to throw Tanco's trackers off the scent.

Brierre thanked the government for its speedy action in returning his wards. Presumably they will be allowed eventually to leave the country, as Juan D. Peron was following his overthrow as president last fall.

Men To Be Disciplined

Brierre said authorities had assured him the 20 men who invaded his home would be caught and punished.

Government sources identified the kidnapers as military men and civilians. Informants said they apparently were anti-Peron extremists from one of the civilian revolutionary groups that helped throw out Peron.

The band did not harm Tanco or the other six. They sped them to a Buenos Aires army base and turned them over to the military.

Tanco was one of Peron's favorites. He was slated to become vice president had last weekend's rebellion succeeded. His coleader Gen. Juan Jose Valle was captured and shot by a firing squad Tuesday. Valle was to have been president.

Brierre said that Tanco rang his doorbell about 3 a.m. yesterday, saying he was mortally wounded.

"He looked very weak and pale but he was not wounded," the ambassador said.

Tanco then obtained the traditional right of asylum. Peron is living in asylum in Panama.

Contracts To Be Given For Route 23 Projects

Bids will be opened in Columbus Tuesday, June 26, on two road projects in Wyandot and Allen and Van Wert Counties, for resurfacing work and replacement of five narrow bridges.

The Wyandot project includes replacement of five bridges on Route 23 south of Upper Sandusky and widening of that route from 20 to 24 feet from Upper Sandusky to the Marion County line, a distance of 10.16 miles. Completion date of the widening job is estimated at sept. 30, 1957.

Concrete slab structures will be erected over Little Sandusky Creek, Honey Run and Rebers Run, while two smaller structures will be replaced by corrugated culvert pipe.

Break Is Seen In Civil Rights, Aid to Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—A split in the long-dominant Republican - Southern Democratic coalition on the House Rules Committee seemed to assure today early House votes on civil rights and federal school aid bills.

The committee, which normally controls the flow of legislation to the House floor, had sidetracked bills dealing with both subjects. But opponents of the measures were "run over," in the words of Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va), at a name-calling session Thursday.

By 7-3 and 6-4, respectively, the committee voted to consider both the school bill next Tuesday and the civil rights bill next Thursday.

Indications were that both measures would be cleared for House action the following week.

Signs also pointed to House passage. However, a filibuster by Southern Democrats in the Senate likely will kill both measures in the closing days of Congress.

The committee's three Southern Democrats, Reps. Smith, Colmer (Miss) and Trimble (Ark), opposed both motions to act on the bills. On the civil rights bill, they were joined by one Republican, Rep. Leo Allen (Ill).

On the winning side were Reps. Delaney (D-NY), Madden (D-Ind), O'Neill (D-Mass), Bolling (D-Mo.), Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) and Ellsworth (R-Ore), with the addition of Allen on the school bill.

Two members, Reps. Thornberry (D-Tex) and Latham (R-NY), were absent.

All-Star Game Is Refused in Dayton

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP)—The president of the Ohio Football Coaches' Assn. reported today that Dayton had turned down the state high school all-star football game for 1957.

William Kidd, association president and coach of New Philadelphia High School's football team, said the rejection came from Dayton public school athletic officials.

This year's game will be held in Canton Aug. 17, and under the rules of the association the 1957 game goes to the Southwestern District.

Kidd said should no other city in the district want the game, any city in the state with teams in the association will be eligible to bid. He said all bids are to be filed with the association before the board meeting in Canton during the all-star game weekend.

Samuel Horvitz Dies

CLEVELAND (AP) — Samuel A. Horvitz, 67, newspaper publisher and a partner in a construction firm, died today in Lakeside Hospital.

Horvitz was stricken Wednesday with cerebral thrombosis.

Horvitz was a partner with his brother, Isadore, in publishing newspapers in Lorain and Mansfield and in the Highway Construction Co.

New York City Subway Strike Ended Quickly

System Is Paralyzed Nine Hours in Wildcat Motormen's Walkout

NEW YORK (AP)—Subways rolled as usual today, bringing back to work the hundreds of thousands who spent sweltering, hectic hours getting home by makeshift means Thursday night during a subway motormen's strike.

The vast subway system was all but paralyzed during the nine-hour walkout, unprecedented in the history of city transit.

With the return to work, the city's Transit Authority announced that 27 motormen, including 25 officials of their union, the Motormen's Benevolent Assn., had been suspended for their part in the affair.

Union President Suspended

Among them was Theodore Loos president of the MBA.

Hundreds of thousands, heading home from offices and factories, were stranded by the first city-wide subway strike in New York history.

It began as a wildcat strike of three motormen on the BMT line, gradually spread to all three subway lines, and built to a crescendo of confusion and congestion during the rush to get home.

On a normal day, about 4½ million people ride over the city's 228 miles of subway and elevated track, some 800,000 of them during the morning and evening rush hour periods.

Starts at 1 p.m.

The strike began at 1 p.m., EST when three members of the Motormen's Benevolent Assn., a new union that split with Mike Quill's AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union, were suspended for refusing to take supervisory personnel on a BMT run.

As the strike were on, more than 100 MBA motormen were suspended by the New York City Transit Authority, which operates the three cityowned subway line.

The MBA, formed last December out of dissatisfaction with the contract negotiated by Quill's union, claims 2,000 of the system's 3,300 motormen. Quill scoffs at the figure. His union, which has a contract with the Transit Authority, claims 34,000 of the city's 44,000 bus and subway workers.

The motormen voted to return to work after Harris J. Klein, a former member of the Authority, stepped in as mediator and promised to obtain an amnesty for the strikers.

Bible Words for Today

MATTHEW 28:20—"I will always be with you, to the very close of the age." (Goodspeed)

* * *

Early in my first pastorate I was called to the home of one of our church members late one afternoon. Upon my arrival I discovered the husband and father of three small children had dropped dead as he walked in his front yard after his day's work was finished. You may easily imagine my feeling as I went in the home to try to offer comfort to that young mother who so suddenly was left a widow with the responsibility of providing for her children. My feeling of apprehension was soon assuaged by that noble Christian mother's statement to me: "The Lord is with me and will help me through this trying experience."

It is so wonderful to live the kind of Christian life that enables one to claim the promise of the Lord when He said, "I will always be with you, . . ."

Trucker Prevents Disastrous Blaze

PORTALES, N M. (AP) — R. F. Callis, Portales, was filling his tank trunk from an 18,000 gallon supply tank at a wholesale depot.

A metal lid fell and struck a spark. Flames burst from the gasoline flowing into the truck Callis jumped to a valve and cut off the flow. Then he climbed into the cab of the flaming truck and drove it a safe distance from the loading dock, jumped out and summoned firemen.

They snuffed out the blaze which officials said could have been a major fire. There was little damage.

Callis was warm but unhurt.

Powers Invaded

By George Sokolsky

The separations of powers, inherent in our Constitution, cannot possibly mean a conflict over powers between the President and Congress, and between the Congress and the Supreme Court. Yet such a conflict over powers has developed during the Eisenhower Administration.

SOKOLSKY

A deliberate effort has been made to reduce Congress to a ratifying body, accepting instructions from the President, issued not directly by him but by his various assistants.

His illnesses have had nothing to do with the growth of power among the White House staff. It is a theory of governmental operations arising out of the President's military experience and based on the assumption that what works in the Army can work in civil life.

-:-

THE REJECTION OF such instructions over the foreign aid issue was the first assertion by the House of Representatives during this administration that it intends to function according to the Constitution.

It was a major political setback for President Eisenhower, but that is hardly as important, one way or the other, as that Constitutional, orderly government should prevail.

The British parliamentary system functions more effectively, even in a period of crisis, than our division of power system under the Constitution.

The French parliamentary system sometimes does not function at all because of proportional representation which lessens responsibility.

-:-

THE AMERICAN method, when first designed, was an inevitable consequence of colonial history and of the fact that this is a federation of sovereign states, each state possessing all powers of government except such as are granted to the Federal government by the Constitution.

War and economic depressions encouraged public opinion to permit an expansion of Federal authority which really resulted in an expansion of Presidential authority.

No state may secede from the Union as a consequence of the War Between the States which was fought over the sanctity of treaties!

On the other hand, the Constitution should protect the states from usurpation of power either by the President or the Congress.

-:-

IN A WORD, the states must depend upon the Supreme Court to defend their rights.

Whenever the Supreme Court has exceeded its Constitutional authority and has become a third house of Congress, legislating by judicial decision, the confusion in the land has become very tense.

Such tension now exists in both South and North over the Negro question.

Although some of the decisions of the present Supreme Court over Communist cases have been as much an invasion of the Constitutional rights of the states, they did not stir much excitement.

Except in the South, the expansion of the authority of the Supreme Court during the past year made hardly any impression.

IN FACT, THE Slochower decision was probably the most significant invasion of local authority by the Supreme Court and, in the opinion of many lawyers, the Court showed a lack of understanding of what is involved in their decision, which is, that a state legislature may not lay down the rules governing the employment of persons by the state or any agency thereof, such as a municipality or a Board of Education.

If the Supreme Court is correct in this decision, what employment policy may a state, municipality or Board of Education adopt?

The executive has adopted an attitude toward Congress with regard to the provision of information which is obviously unsound and is, under any other system, untenable.

How can Congress legislate without data and if the Executive is to withhold data, either Congress must legislate on order of the Executive or must withhold authorization for funds until the data is provided.

-:-

IT IS USUAL, in the British system, for responsible ministers to answer questions in Parliament, although Sir Anthony Eden refused to answer questions about the Frogman accused of spying on a Russian ship.

The illegal practice of some executive departments to keep unexpended balances, which under any correct bookkeeping system should be returned to the Treasurer, is indicative of the executive distrust of Congress.

The departments which withhold unexpended balances, often by incorrect accountancy methods, assume that such funds may be used for purposes other than Congressional appropriations, which is clearly against the law.

This Constitutional situation must sooner or later lead to adjustment or to a breakdown of Constitutional government because any Executive official can expand his powers without fear unless either the courts or the people object.

Man of Compassion

By Victor Riesel

I know that no partisan will charge me with politics if I report that President Eisenhower is a man of compassion, troubled by the hurts inflicted on his fellow men.

Victor Riesel

I feel particularly strongly about this because amid international pressures and homespun political upheavals, he was much disturbed by the attack upon me. And for the first time in White House history a president was moved to touch on a sensitive subject while talking to a leader of labor.

The actual conversation between Mr. Eisenhower and AFL - CIO developed when Eisenhower and president George Meany has never been reported. Here it is, as it Meany were walking to the President's car following the dedication of the federation's new building on June 4.

-:-

"DID YOU SEE Riesel on the "Meet the Press" broadcast yesterday?" the President asked Meany.

"Yes, I watched it," Mr. Meany replied.

"Isn't it dreadful what they did to the fellow," Mr. Eisenhower continued.

George Meany agreed. The President then turned to him and with the indignant tone so characteristic of his voice when he is angered, asked.

"Well, just what do we do about fighting the labor racketeers?"

"You can do a great deal, Mr. President," Meany replied. "There is the FBI, the Justice Department, the Treasury Department and the rest."

It was at this point that the President offered Meany every government facility for "any investigation or handling of racketeering within any union." He wanted Meany to know that the assistance would be given.

-:-

THE AFL-CIO CHIEF thanked the Chief Executive, who then suggested they get together to plan a joint fight.

Now all this seems futile. Unfortunately for the world, and for this home front fight for decency, Mr. Eisenhower is ill. Under pressure of world problems, Meany is preparing to travel to Belgium to confer with global labor leaders, whose backbones need stiffening in the fight on international Communism.

Meany leaves the United States on June 22. Already, many labor people are trying to brush the entire incident under a political rug so it can be forgotten. The attacks are being launched in the very highest circles inside labor. These blasts at government cooperation and possible Congressional investigation will intensify after Mr. Meany goes to Europe.

ALREADY A MAJOR labor newspaper has referred to demands for a Congressional investigation as "shrill cries." These propagandists are labeling any such probe in advance as a "gigantic smear of all labor unions."

This, then, is the reply to violence on the streets. This, then, is the reply to the wholesale looting of welfare funds described in detail in the 400-page report by Senate committee headed by Paul Douglas of Illinois, labor's own candidate, elected with help, money and manpower supplied by Illinois unions.

Apparently there will always be those professional propagandists inside labor who will insist that every reference to a fight by the community on racketeering labor officials is a blast at all labor. It will make it more and more difficult for any one to show the public the line between crooked and decent unions.

WHAT SAY THESE propagandists about the indictment last Tuesday in New York by a federal grand jury of officials of a retail clerks union local, 1648, with records of indictments for cop killing and convictions for rape, narcotics peddling and thievery. These men were in office for years.

Today they are indicted for extorting tens of thousands of dollars. George Meany welcomes such indictments. Why don't the men on the lower echelons do the same and help all decent forces fight the unethical ones?

These propagandists insist that labor can clean its own house. Fine. The entire nation is willing to watch. Furthermore, the AFL-CIO high council has just given its Ethical Practices Committee the power to move immediately. That's terrific. The nation is watching.

-:-

LABOR'S OWN POLICING committee has the full power now to act on its own. It has, in effect, the power of the AFL-CIO Executive Council. It can hire lawyers and investigators, set up a headquarters, launch penetrating investigations, hold informal off-the-record hearings and set up a code of ethical practices for all national unions. This committee is made up of honorable men.

Now let's see if they get cooperation from others who claim to be as honorable — but who are so strangely sensitive about government help.

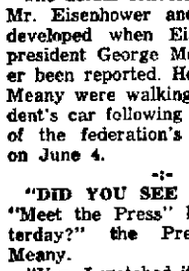
Successful Sons

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

Few things warm a man's heart more on Father's Day than to know he has a son following successfully in his footsteps.



HAL BOYLE

And every day is Father's Day to him if he knows the son is showing more promise than he himself did at the same age.

What deeper flow of satisfaction can a father have than to turn over the running of his business to his son, or at least to know that he has a son who will in time be able to shoulder that responsibility?

—:—

THIS DESIRE that a son take up the same calling is probably as old as mankind. Even if a man has met with only mediocre success—or even failure—in his own line of work, he often nourishes a secret hope his son will take up the same path and go on and excel him. It affords a further continuity to his own life and work.

Sometimes, of course, it is impractical for a father to want his son to pursue the same career. Every now and then a 6-foot policeman has a 5-foot-4 son—too small for "the force."

Artists, opera singers and authors have a problem in this respect, too. They have special talents which, for some reason, rarely are hereditary. There have been some distinguished exceptions.

—:—

I KNEW AN OLD Irishman once who used to say gravely that the reason he never wanted to be Pope was because "I couldn't hand the job on to my son."

But lawyers, doctors, politicians and businessmen often have sons who take up the same lifework.

American corporations teem with noteworthy examples, ranging from elderly John D. Rockefeller Jr., who followed his famous father in both finance and philanthropy, to young Henry Ford II.

A few more you may not be quite so familiar with:

Donald W. Douglas, pioneer airplane designer and manufacturer, has a son, Donald Jr., who, at 38 is vice president in charge of sales and since 1943 has supervised the testing of 20 types of aircraft.

—:—

FREDERICK H. ECKER, honorary chairman of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., whose assets of nearly 14 billion dollars make it the world's second largest business enterprise, has a son, Frederick W. Ecker, who is president.

Only last month Thomas J. Watson Sr. turned over the reins of the vast International Business Machines Corp. to Thomas J. Watson Jr., who is 42. Young Tom started in the company as a $185 a month student salesman.

Alfred C. Fuller founded the Fuller Brush Co. as a one-man operation 50 years ago. His son, A. Howard Fuller, who first worked for the firm as a door-to-door salesman, became president in 1943 at 30, added cosmetics and other items to its sales line and increased the annual business from 20 million dollars to 90 million.

Some six months ago at 37, Robert W. Sarnoff became president of NBC, a post once held by his father, David Sarnoff, chairman of RCA, the parent corporation.

107 Employes at Depot Will Receive Citations

Superior performance, safety and length of service awards will be presented today to a total of 107 employes of the Marion Engineer Depot in a special program celebrating the Corps of Engineers' 181st anniversary Saturday.

Col. J. Arthur Hamilton, commanding officer, will make the awards and will also speak on "Engineer Day."

Scheduled to begin with the playing of the national anthem at 2 p.m., the program alwo will include the showing of two motion picture films entitled "Operation Noah" and "Foundation for Defense" at 2:05 p.m. The program is scheduled to conclude at 3:25 p.m.

—:—

THE CORPS OF engineers was founded on June 16, 1775 when the Continental Congress authorized one chief engineer and two assistants "in a separate department" of the "Grand Army". On March 11, 1779 congress resolved that the engineers serving in the department would become the corps of engineers.

Since then the military activities of the corps have increased gradually and today it has a multiplicity of duties including construction of all war department installations, provision of equipment and supplies for the Army, care of rivers, harbors and waterways, construction of numerous government buildings, various monuments and so on.

The Marion Engineer Depot was completed on Nov. 30, 1942 after having been started June 11, 1942.

The depot has some 640 acres of land which contains some seven miles of paved roads and 21 miles of standard railroad track. It reached its peak employment in July, 1944 when 47 military personnel and 1,478 civilian personnel were employed.

The receipt, storage, processing and shipment of engineer equipment has been the principal mission of the depot since 1945.

In 1955 it also was assigned the duty of world-wide distribution of several thousand repair parts used by the engineers.

—:—

THE AWARDS to be given the 107 employes tomorrow include two 30-year service, two 20-year service and 72 ten-year service, 25 safety awards for 10 years of accident-free employment and five sustained superior performance awards.

The two employes receiving the 30-year awards are Herbert E. Canter and Roy F. Kirk.

A contract specialist in the miscellaneous services office, Mr. Canter served in the Army a short period in 1918. He was employed of the Columbus General Depot from April 13, 1922 to Dec. 31, 1946. He was employed at the Marion Depot on March 1, 1951.

Mr. Kirk, comptroller at the local installation, started his government career in the Engineers District 26 office at Louisville, Ky. on May 26, 1926 and has had continuous service since. After working at various other installations for 18 years, he came to the Marion Depot on Feb. 1, 1944 and has remained here since. He was named to his present position in January. He also is chairman of the board of civil service examiners at the depot. He previously was awarded a meritorious service award in recognition of exemplary performance of duty at the local installation.

THE TWO 20-YEAR awards will go to Robert G. Chambers, organization and methods examiner in the comptroller's office, and Thomas C. Colvert, equipment adviser.

A veteran of the U. S. Army Air Corps from Nov. 6, 1940 to July, 1947 and the U. S. Air Force from July, 1947 to April, 1950, Mr. Chambers joined the depot on July 24, 1950 as organization and methods examiner in the storage division. He first joined the government service as a company commander in the CCC in May, 1933.

Mr. Colvert is a veteran of the Army from July 1, 1931 to Dec. 31, 1955 when he retired from active service as a chief warrant officer. He began his civilian employment at the local depot on Jan 9.

The five receiving the new sustained superior performance awards are Lenore L. Bondley, comptroller in the management branch; Grace C. McDougal, civilian personnel office; Maxine H. McJunkin, civilian personnel office; Ruby M. Ridgeway, comptroller, management branch; and Earl E. Williams, storage division, labor and equipment branch. They are the first recipients of this award at the Marion depot.

Taller Stewardesses

WASHINGTON (AP)—United Airlines today opened its ranks to younger and taller airplane stewardesses.

United stewardesses in the future may be as tall as 5 feet 8 inches, instead of 5 feet 7, and as young as 20, instead of 21.

United said higher ceilings in modern planes made the first change possible, and that a shortage of stewardesses dictated the second.

Governor of Ohio Visits Boys' State

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche spent Thursday night at the Buckeye Boys' State and had breakfast today with the 991 youthful citizens of the "state" sponsored by the American Legion to give experience in self-government.

The governor spoke briefly at Thursday's evening retreat ceremony.

The alertness of the Boys' State Highway Patrol was tested with a simulated bank robbery Thursday. Eleven citizens, staging the mock holdup, entered the State Bank at closing time, overpowered employees and seized records. No money was taken since the bank handles only checks.

Members of the patrol, who were watching a training film in the theater near the bank, captured nine of the invaders.

Highway Safety Director James McAninch of Phalanx Station praised the patrol's efficiency.

The Legislature directed Gov. Richard Gorsuch to write President Eisenhower and wish him a speedy recovery from his operation.

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Millard Reddinger, 61, of Sawyerwood, was killed by lightning Thursday night as a severe wind and rainstorm swept eastern Summit County. He was fishing in Springfield Lake. Suburban Mogadore was hit by a downpour that flooded the town's main street.

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Sometime You Wonder

Some of us keep fighting for ambitious television such as the spectaculars. On the other side are the commercial folk who would like to make a living out of those filmed half-hour strips like "December Bride."

JOHN CROSBY would like to load themselves with half-hour packages like "December Bride." Nobody would have to worry about anything. Just put the show on the air and let it run forever. And take the client out on a spree when he gets to town. It's a comfortable way to run a business, but from the point of view of the victim at home, I don't think it's the best way and I have said so repeatedly.

-:-

THEN, THERE COMES along something like Max Liebman's "Holiday," a spectacular which NBC-TV offered the other night, and it pulls the rug out from under us. "Holiday," on which a bundle of money must have been spent, is about as bad as a television show could get.

It had color. It had an expensive —though, God knows, not a good —cast. It had music based on Johann Strauss. The plot was frantically romantic. The backgrounds included Paris, Vienna and Venice —and where can you get better backgrounds than that?

And still, it was all pretty dreadful. It's easy to conclude from "Holiday" that this sort of venture simply isn't any good and that television ought to take refuge in something safe like "What's My Line?"

This is an easy out but it's not, by any means, a sensible one. "Holiday" was bad because an enormous amount of sheer lunacy went into its production. In the first place, it was based on a play called "The Grand Tour" by Elmer Rice which ran a grand tour of eight days on Broadway. Not that everything that runs eight days is a turkey but . . . well — come to think of it — everything that runs eight days is a turkey. So much for the original play.

-:-

THE PLOT IS ABOUT a school teacher, who goes to Eufope and falls in love with a handsome but cryptic individual. After hitting all the spots — from Paris to Venice — with him, she discovers he's an embezzler. So she pays his debts, restores him to his wife and goes back to teaching school.

Put baldly like that, it sounds improbable. But when you put in in color — with Doretta Morrow, Keith Andes and Kitty Carlisle — it's impossible. Or to put it another way, it's . . .

Well, I can remember when my mother used to come back from a bad evening at the theater, fix a cold eye on me, and say: "If you couldn't write a better play than that . . ."

In other words, it was my fault. She didn't exactly blame me for writing the play she's seen; but she blamed me for not having written something better that should have been in the theater that night.

-:-

IT IS THIS KIND of thinking that I devoutly hope will not overwhelm the sponsors and the networks and especially the public. When you see a bad show on television, you shouldn't kick the set; that isn't where the fault lies.

Where does it lie? Well, it seems to me that Max Liebman, who has had virtually unlimited funds to play with this year (this was his last production of the season), and the use of NBC's best color studios on both coasts, and the run of the house, ought to answer that question himself.

Pike Monument To Be Dedicated in Colorado

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A huge boulder monument to Zebulon Montgomery Pike will be dedicated this summer on Pike's Peak, which he discovered 150 years ago.

The dedication will be one of the chief events in the sesquicentennial celebration of Pike's discovery.

Attached to the boulder will be a two-foot square bronze plaque with the head of Pike in bas-relief. The plaque is being cast from a model made by John Fetler, sculptor and music critic for the Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph.

Bellanca Corp.'s Financial Setup Studied at Parley

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Closed-door conferences were held Thursday by Akron financier Sydney Albert in attempts to untangle his financial affairs involving about 7 companies, but no announcements were made.

In New York, common stock of Bellanca Corp. advanced 37 cents on the American Stock Exchange following the recent sharp break. It closed at $7.37 a share after rising to $7.87 for a time.

Bellanca is Albert's huge holding company.

Albert's financial difficulties came to light when Associates Discount Corp. of South Bend, Ind., asked payment on a promissory note of $1,286,165. Two Akron banks were ordered by the Summit County Court to pay $128,480.24 from the personal account of Albert and the account of Machinery Terminals, Inc., one of his Akron concerns.

Robert Pfleuger of Akron, who represents Associates Discount, said the note was signed by Albert as president of Machinery Terminals, Inc., Lake City Malleable Co. of Cleveland, Lake City Malleable, Inc., of Ashtabula, Ohio and Columbus (Ohio) Malleable Iron Co.

Van Wert County Boy Accidentally Hangs Self

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP)—An 11-year-old boy accidentally hung himself Thursday night in the bathroom of his home in nearby Willshire Twp., Van Wert County sheriff's deputies reported.

They identified the victim as John William Duff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Duff.

Sheriff W. L. Clay said Mrs. Duff told him the boy came home from a Bible school and went upstairs to take a shower. She said when she investigated later she found her son hanging over the bath tub with a rope knotted around his neck and looped over the shower.

Coroner Dr. W. C. Trapp ruled the death accidental.

WAVES are first enlisted as seaman recruits, USN, and are sent to the U.S. Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md., for nine weeks of recruit training.

Marion Ohioana Group Takes Tour

A group of Marion Countians who are affiliated with the Ohioana Library Association attended the annual pilgrimage sponsored by the Association Saturday in Columbus. This year the event was a tour of Columbus.

Luncheon was at the Ohio Memorial Union and a bus tour around the city included visits to the rose garden, St. Steven's Church, the old and new Governor's mansion and other places of interest. The tour concluded with tea at Capital University.

Walter Marvin, executive director of the association, presided for an informal program at the luncheon in the absence of the president, Mrs. Louis Seltzer, who is on a European tour. Brief talks were by Mrs. Howard Bevis and Mrs. Frank Lausche, both of whom are active in the association.

The Marion party included Mr. and Mrs. William McGee, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gifford, Mrs. E. O. Uncapher, Mrs. Ben Peterson, Mrs. Mary Birch, Mrs. H. A. Ammann, Miss Elizabeth Ammann, Miss Kathryn Moore, Miss Pansy Rauhauser, Marion County chairman, and Miss Wanda McMahan.

There are approximately 2,800 women officers and 3,300 enlisted women in the inactive Naval Reserve.

Red Sox Down Indians 10-9 To Take Finale of Long Stand at Boston Park

Tribe Rally Fails; Boston Tags Lemon for 8 Runs

By The Associated Press

Cleveland's Indians are like the horse player who stayed up all night figuring the angles for a sure thing, then overslept and couldn't get his bet down.

When the New York Yankees built their American League lead to 6½ games with a hot 13-4 streak late last month, Manager Al Lopez and the Tribe shrugged it off. "It can't last," said the Injuns. "They can't keep hitting like that. Their pitching isn't really that good."

Yanks in Slump

The Tribe was right. The Yankees have won only five of 12 in June—the worst record of any club in the AL, including last place Washington. Cleveland, however, has won but eight of 15 in that stretch and has managed to trim New York's lead by a mere 1½ games.

Pitching — Bob Lemon, Early Wynn, Herb Score and Mike Garcia — was to be Cleveland's trump card. But in the 15 games played in June, Lemon, Wynn and Garcia have a combined 3-5 mark. Score, sidelined by a tummyache, worked only one game, and won it.

Lemon's been the big loser, dropping three of four June decisions. He was whacked again Thursday for 11 hits and eight runs in four innings as the Boston Red Sox out-slugged the Tribe 10-9.

The Yankees, meanwhile, were winning their series with the second place White Sox 5-1 with Bob Grim tossing a four-hitter and Mickey Mantle hitting his 22nd home run — his first in nine days.

No other games were scheduled in the AL as the Yanks, who open a road trip at Cleveland tonight, put their lead at five games with the Indians only five percentage points back of the White Sox.

Braves Dump Giants

Only one National League game was scheduled and the Milwaukee Braves closed their 15-game home stand with a 5-10 mark by beating the New York Giants 5-2.

Jackie Jensen, who drove in four runs for the Red Sox, clipped Lemon for a three-run homer in the third.

Dick Gernert — replacing Ted Williams, who had a cold — drove home three runs on three singles and batted the winning run home in the fifth off reliefer Bud Daley. Lemon hit a solo homer and Al Rosen batted in three runs as the Indians got 13 hits off winner Ike Delock and reliefers Tom Hurd and Leo Kiely.

Boston took three of the five games in the series. One was a tie.

The Cleveland Indians tonight open a 17-game home stand in which they will meet all the other teams in the American League except Detroit.

Tonight's opposition will be the league-leading New York Yankees, who will be here for three games. Mike Garcia, who has been knocked out twice by the Yankees will get the starting assignment. He will be seeking his fifth victory against three defeats. His opposition will be Johnny Kucks, who has won seven and lost three and has a 2-1 record against the Indians.

The Indians wound up their eastern tour with eight victories, seven defeats and a tie.

Rally Falls Short

The Indians scored four runs in the sixth inning to close the gap to one run, but couldn't score against reliefer Leo Kiely in the last three frames. The loss was charged to Bob Lemon, his fourth against seven wins. Ike Delock won his second victory against four defeats.

Boston got 17 hits off three Indian pitchers. Lemon gave up eight runs on 11 hits in the four innings he worked. He was followed to the mound by Bud Daley and Cal McLish, with McLish holding the Red Sox scoreless in the last three innings.

Lefthander Herb Score is tentatively scheduled to start the second game against the Yankees Saturday. Early Wynn will close the series Sunday.

New York made it seven of eight against the White Sox, handing Jim Wilson an 8-3 record with three unearned runs in the third after Minnie Minoso muffed Gil McDougald's two-out fly to left. Grim struck out nine and walked only one, although giving up Dave Philley's second homer, for a 4-0 record.

The fourth-place Braves were scoreless for four innings against Ruben Gomez, then tied it on Del Crandall's two-run homer in the fifth. Southpaw Warren Spahn, who has lost five straight, won his third with a seven-hitter and scored the deciding run on Billy Bruton's double in the sixth. Willie Mays had a home run, two singles and a walk for the Giants.

Eight-Player Deal

Earlier in the day, the Giants made a four-for-four deal with the St.Louis Cardinals with second baseman Al Schoendienst, catcher Bill Sarni, outfielder Jackie Brandt and southpaw Dick Littlefield going to New York in exchange for shortstop Al Dark, first baseman Whitey Lockman, catcher Ray Katt and lefthander Don Liddle. They'll report to their new clubs today.

The Giants also recalled lefty Jim Constable and shortstop Ed Bressoud from Minneapolis. Bressoud had one hit in four trips and drove in a run against the Braves.

In another deal Thursday, beating today's trading deadline, the Yankees sold first baseman Eddie Robinson to Kansas City and then sent infielder - outfielder Lou Skizas to the A's from their Richmond farm. The A's shipped righthander Ed Burtschy and outfielder Bill Renna to the International League club in the deal.

Columbus Jets Split Pair With Montreal Nine

By The Associated Press

Miami baseball fans can be thankful that Bill Veeck, executive vice president of the Marlins, has a flair for the unusual and is a friend of ageless and colorful Satchel Paige.

It is because of Veeck that Paige is a member of the Marlins' pitching staff. And the hurling of the veteran Negro has accounted for four victories in addition to a number of saves for other members of the staff. He has lost two.

Satch saved another Thursday night as the Marlins defeated the Rochester Red Wings 4-3. Gene Snyder weakened in the seventh, after hurling six innings of hitless ball.

The Montreal Royals picked up a half-game on the second place Red Wings when they split a double header with Columbus. The Royals won the first 7-4 and the Jets the second 5-4.

The Havana Sugar Kings racked up their third straight victory at the expense of the Buffalo Bisons, winning 9-6.

Richmond's Virginians cracked out 16 hits but beat the Toronto Maple Leafs only 4-2.

Yesterday's STARS

Pitching

Bob Grim, Yankees — Won his fourth game without a defeat, striking out nine and allowing only one walk in a four-hitter that beat the White Sox 5-1.

Hitting

Jackie Jensen and Dick Gernert, Red Sox — Drove in seven runs between them to beat Indians 10-9; Jensen knocked in four with three-run homer and two singles, Gernert had three singles and a walk.

Four Browns Veterans Sign New Agreements

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns, National football League champions, said today signed contracts have been received from four players, including Walter Michaels, defensive signal caller, and end Darrell Brewster, the team's leading pass receiver.

Defensive halfback John Petitbon and linebacker Pete Perini were the others returning signed contracts for the 1956 season.

Open Lead Is Grabbed By Rosburg

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Golf must be played according to the rules — but rules may be interpreted.

That stand by the U. S. Golf Assn., resulted in probably the most hectic opening day in the history of the U. S. Open golf championship.

The leader today was Bob Rosburg, a rotund, bespectacled Stanford University graduate who looks about as much like a pro golfer as your maiden aunt. Rosburg, a terrific putter when he's hot, fired an early round of 34-34—68, two under par, over the Oak Hill Country Club course.

Thomson Second

Next at even par 70 came Australia's two - time British Open champion Peter Thomson. Then there were a whole flock of players with 71's — including three former Open champions, Ed Furgol, Julius Boros and Cary Middlecoff.

Three of golf's most prominent players — Henry Cotton, Jackie Burke and Doug Ford — were threatened with disqualification at one time or another. Burke and Ford drew two-stroke penalties and Cotton none.

Here's what happened:

Cotton, three-time British Open champion, was charged with scoring a five for himself on the 17th hole when he actually took a six. Some observers thought he hit a putt twice. Cotton said it was only once.

USGA officials accepted the word of Cotton and his scorer and there was no penalty.

A few minutes later Burke came in and admitted he had signed an incorrect card, which normally calls for disqualification. He had taken a bogey five on the 18th hole and his marker put down a four.

Later, when he learned a 75 instead of a 76 had been posted for him, Burke made the correction himself. Since he freely admitted the mistake was his, the committee decided to invoke a rule which permits modification of the disqualification penalty — something that never before had been done in the case of a scorecard error.

Ford Penalized Two

Ford's mistake may have been more costly. He dropped a new ball too quickly after seeing an iron shot splash into a creek at the 10th hole. Before he actually played it, the original ball was found on the far side of the water and Doug played out the hole with it.

The committee ruling was that the ball was "in play" as soon as Ford dropped it and the penalty was two strokes for removing it from play.

TWO INFIELD VETERANS. Al Dark of the Giants (left) and the Cards' Red Schoendienst (right) switched uniforms along with six other players in a major trade between the two clubs. The Cards also gave up catcher Bill Sarni, rookie Jackie Brandt and pitcher Dick Littlefield for the Giants' Whitey Lockman, catcher Ray Katt and southpaw Don Liddle.

Reds Seek New Pitcher To Aid Club

NEW YORK (AP)—Cincinnati Redleg General Manager Gabe Paul came in here Thursday to make one last effort to pry a winning pitcher loose from some other National League club.

The deadline for trades will be reached at midnight tonight. Paul showed up ahead of his ball club, which will open a series tonight against the New York Giants.

The team, riding along in second place and only a half game out of first, was to arrive today. Manager Birdie Tebbetts has named Johnny Klippstein to pitch the opener of the road trip against the Giants' Johnny Antonelli.

Klippstein was to have worked Wednesday night's game against Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, which was rained out.

Operating out of New York, Paul figures to be in close touch with the Giants, as well as Milwaukee and Brooklyn, who play at Brooklyn and Chicago and Philadelphia who play at Philadelphia.

It was an open secret that Paul covets the Giants' Reuben Gomez but the eight-player deal between New York and St. Louis may have killed off any chances for him—or again that deal might turn out to be a three-way swap.

Another pitcher Paul looks upon with favor is Chicago's Bob Rush but there appeared to be little chance of landing him.

Paul has never disclosed just what players the Reds might offer in a trade but there have been reports third baseman Ray Jablonski and catcher Smokey Burgess are expendable If Burgess should go, however, there would have to be another catcher in the picture somewhere because his departure would leave the Cincinnatians with only one receiver.

YMCA Will Open Swimming Classes For Handicapped

Opening of summer swimming classes for the handicapped swimmer is being announced by the Marion YMCA.

Open to persons with some type of handicap, the class was in session during the spring and is re-opening its registration to new persons interested in the program.

Gene Ruppart is instructor for the class which will meet Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The Y points out that swimming by the handicapped is not designed to perform miracles in healing and curing but adds that water is a great equalizer, affords great pleasure and relaxation, and in some cases water therapy speeds up rehabilitation.

Persons interested in the class are requested to be on hand Tuesday at 6 p.m. for the opening class.

Yankees Recall 2 Players to Squad

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rookie outfielder Norm Siebern and shortstop Billy Hunter today were back with the New York Yankees, who open a three-game series with the Cleveland Indians tonight.

Siebern, the prize newcomer in the Yankees' spring camp before injuring a knee, was recalled from Denver of the American Assn. where he was hitting .300. The 22-year-old left handed hitter is a service returnee and does not count in the Yankee roster limit.

To make room for Hunter, on the inactive list since fracturing an ankle at Denver last season, the Yankees sold first baseman Eddie Robinson to Kansas City for an undisclosed sum.

Cards, Giants Manage Eight Player Trade

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Frank Lane, a perpetual motion machine on baseball's trading market, has the St. Louis Cardinal fans reeling with his latest deal.

The Redbird general manager, who has almost completely reshuffled the team's roster since taking over last October, swapped Red Schoendienst to the New York Giants Thursday in a four-for-four package that brought Alvin Dark to the Cards.

Newspaper switchboards were swamped with calls after the deal was announced, swamped with such questions as:

"Who's next?"

"What's he trying to do?"

During the spring, Lane talked of the future and the youngsters on the club. Now he's after the National League flag in 1956.

"I am concerned about 1956 and not the future," he said.

"We couldn't win with our infield.

"We are now finished as far as further deals are concerned."

But the Globe - Democrat reported there were recurring rumors something might be in the wind with Cincinnati before the trading deadline at midnight tonight.

The newspaper said the talk had pitcher Willard Schmidt going to the Redlegs in exchange for relifer Hal Jeffcoat and either utility infielder Rocky Bridges or reserve first baseman George Crowe.

Schoendienst, 33-year-old veteran of 12 seasons with the Redbirds, has been hobbled with a sore arm but the Giants aren't worried about that.

"Red has had arm trouble for 10 years," said Giant Manager Bill Rigney. "He's O.K."

The popular second baseman went to the Giants along with rookie outfielder Jackie Brandt, catcher Bill Sarni and pitcher Dick Littlefield.

In exchange the Cards got first baseman Whitey Lockman, catcher Ray Katt and pitcher Don Liddle. Schoendienst and Dark were the captains of their respective clubs.

Lane said Dark was the big factor in the deal.

"Dark is a good shortstop, may be not as good as he was five years ago, but who is? He can give us the leadership Red did," Lane said.

The Cards plan to move Don Blasingame from short to second and put Dark at shortstop, Lockman at first. Wally Moon, who has been on first, will move into center field — his natural position. Rookie Hal Smith takes over as top catcher.

The switch - hitting Schoendienst, member of eight National League All-Star teams, will take over at second for New York with Daryl Spencer moving to shortstop. Sarni becomes the No.1 catcher ahead of Wes Westrum and Brandt will start in left field.

300 Runners In NCAA Meet

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A young army of about 300 athletes representing 87 schools swings into action today in the 35th annual National Collegiate Track and Field Championships.

Only one final event, the 10,000-meter run, was on the initial program of the two-day meet. The remainder of the schedule, starting at 3 p.m., (CST) was devoted to qualifying trials for the finals Saturday.

Kansas and UCLA were favored in some quarters to win the team championship. But no one discounted the possibility of a repeat triumph by the University of Southern California, which has merely won the title 19 times.

Much was at stake in this, the popularly known NCAA meet, in addition to meet laurels.

The first six finishers in each event automatically qualify to compete in the final Olympic tryouts in Los Angeles June 29-30 and a chance to make the United States Olympic team.

The 100 and 200 meter dashes and the 1,500 meter run shaped up as standout attractions Saturday in the host University of California's Edwards Stadium.

Hot rivalry and a bit of revenge figure in the two sprints, featuring Duke's Dave Sime and Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian College. Sime handed tall Bobby his only defeat of the year in the Drake Relays this spring.

Also threats in the 100 are California's Leamon King, Mike Agostini of Fresno, Calif., State, Ken Kave and Ed Waters of Morgan State and others. All have done 9.4 or under for 100 yards — 9 yards, 1 foot, 1 inch further than the metric distance.

Rain Washes Out Baseball Contests

Rain cancelled scheduled Colt and National Little League action here Thursday night.

The Little League contests will be replayed tonight but the Colt League tilts have been rescheduled for Sunday afternoon. The Colt League games were swtiched to Sunday due to the inability of securing umpires for Friday or Saturday night and because half the boys on the squads work those nights, a Baseball for Boys spokesman said today.

Harvie Ward, 1955 National Amateur golf champion, won the National Collegiate crown while playing for North Carolina in 1949.

Olympic Event Horses Begin Precision Drill

STOCKHOLM, Sweden. (AP) —The Equestrian Olympic games today turned from men and muscle, spectacular and dangerous show jumping to the quiet precision of dressage.

Thirty-seven riders from 18 nations began two days of slow paces, intricate maneuvers, tight turns, exact timing and precise pattern making. That in effect is what comprises dressage.

Horsemen say there is nothing quite like it to show what a horse can do and how a rider can control his mount.

Nations competing for the team prize will be represented by three riders. Among the teams Germany is favored.

The American team failed to finish a single member in the three - day competition which ended Thursday with the British team winning one gold medal and Petrus Kastenman of Sweden capturing the individual gold medal.

OMAHA (AP) —Minnesota, the team that came into the series a favorite because of its hitting power, has the NCAA college world series championship after a six game display of clutch slugging

The Big Ten champions took the championship Thursday night with a 12 to 1 clubbing of Arizona, a co-favorite at the start because of its pitching Minnesota wound up with a 5-1 record and Arizona ended at 4-2, the defeats being at the hands of each other

Jerry Thomas of the Gopher team pitched five-hit ball, belted a two-run triple and after the game was named the tournament's most outstanding player

REX MORGAN, M.D. By Dal Curtis

HERE IT IS, LILA — A CHECK FOR ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS!
IF YOU'LL GIVE IT TO ME — I'LL TAKE IT AND LEAVE!
I'M NOT GOING TO GIVE IT TO YOU UNTIL NEIL GETS HERE!
I — I HAVE NOTHING TO SAY TO NEIL! I DON'T WANT TO SEE HIM!
I WISH YOU AND JUNE WOULD COME IN WITH ME, DR. MORGAN!
I THINK NOT, NEIL! YOU CAN CALL ME LATER — IF THERE'S ANYTHING I CAN DO FOR YOU AND LILA!

STEVE CANYON By Milton Caniff

LILLIAN, IT WAS THOUGHTFUL OF YOU TO COME OVER WHILE SHANTY AND THE OTHERS ARE RUNNING THE JET-TOW TEST...
ALL THE 'OLD RANNOH HANDS' ARE BACHELORS, SO THERE'S NO OTHER SERVICE WIFE TO CROSS FINGERS WITH...
CONSIDERING WHAT'S AT STAKE, YOU'RE VERY CALM, MRS. TOWN...
IF I ACTED AS I FEEL IT WOULD COMMUNICATE TO SHANTY AND UPSET HIM...THAT'S WHAT HAPPENS WHEN TWO PEOPLE HAVE BEEN SO CLOSE FOR SO LONG...
...YOU'RE NOT MARRIED, LILLIAN, BUT YOU CAN UNDERSTAND HOW THAT WOULD BE WITH AN INTENSE PERSON LIKE SHANTY, CAN'T YOU?
WH-WHY-YES! — OF COURSE...
THERE GOES THE TELEPHONE! THANK GOODNESS!

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME By Jimmy Hatlo

I THINK MAYBE OUR LODGE BROTHER LAWYER JARGON COULD CLARIFY THE QUESTION ON THIS SECTION OF THE BY-LAWS....
QUITE! IT IS SIMPLY THAT PER SE THE STATUS QUO OF ANY COMMITTEE PRO TEMPORE IS NE EXEAT IF MANDAMUS — OR TO PUT IT ANOTHER WAY, FACIAS IN EXTRADINO NON VULT — BUT WE MUST LOOK AT THIS FROM ALL ANGLES...
CLEAR AS PEA SOUP! DIDN'T THEY TALK ENGLISH AT THAT LAW SCHOOL HE WENT TO?
DON'T BE SURPRISED IF HE SENDS A BILL FOR THAT DOUBLE TALK....
TO SAY NOTHING OF QUO JERKIBUS ON THE RILLERAH AND STRICTLY NON COMPOS...
JUST SOUNDS LIKE A LOT OF DRUGSTORE LABELS TO ME!
TRYING TO TRANSLATE WHAT THE LEGAL EAGLE MEMBER IS GETTING OFF HIS CHEST....
THANK AND A TIP OF THE HATBO HAT TO LOUIS D. LARONGE, R.R.1, WHITE ROCK, B.C., CANADA

THE HEART OF JULIET JONES By Stan Drake

LARRY — DOESN'T IT BOTHER YOU THAT A NICE KID LIKE THE JONES GIRL HAS A KING-SIZED CRUSH ON YOU?
ME? NOT A BIT, BUT TELL ME, ANDY —
WHAT'S EATING YOU? I'VE BEEN AROUND WITH DOZENS OF GIRLS. WHY THIS SUDDEN, SHARP INTEREST IN EVE?
SKIP IT. JUST MAKING SMALL TALK, THAT'S ALL.
AT FIRST I THOUGHT LARRY WAS A GRANDSTANDER — BUT, HONEST, JULIE, HE'S MORE THAN THAT. HE RESPECTS ME — YOU KNOW HOW IMPORTANT THAT IS!

BLONDIE By Chic Young

BOO-HOO
HERE'S ANOTHER HANDKERCHIEF, BLONDIE — I BROUGHT SOME EXTRA ONES
HOW WAS THE MOVIE, GIRLS?
WONDERFUL
IT WAS A THREE-HANDKERCHIEF PICTURE

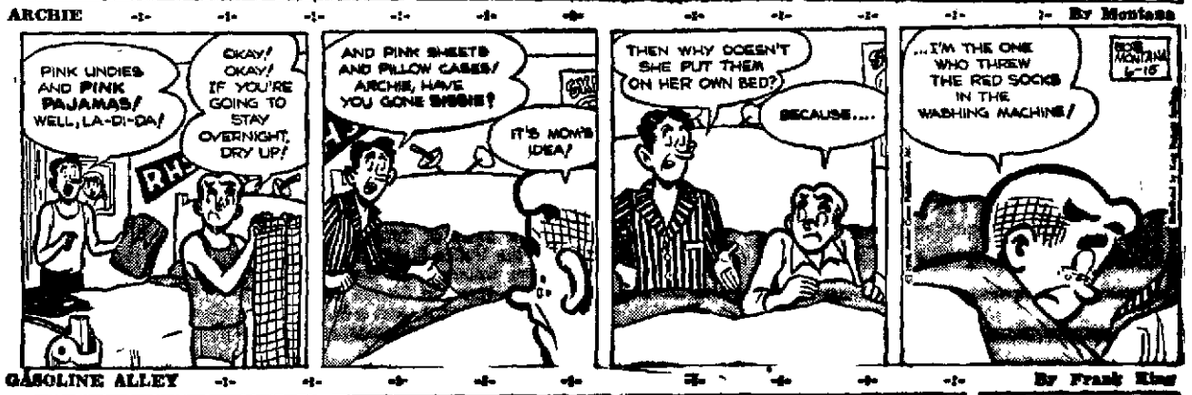
DICK TRACY By Chester Gould

A FINE TIME TO COME AND SEE ME!
JOE!
A FINE MOTHER YOU ARE! WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN THE LAST THREE YEARS?
IS IT TRUE, SON? IS IT TRUE?
WHY SHOULD I TALK TO YOU? TAKE HER AWAY!

RIP KIRBY By Alex Raymond

A BURGLAR COULDN'T HAVE BEEN LOOKING FOR THIS SILLY ROSE, RIP. I WOULDN'T EVEN HAVE IT EXCEPT FOR A FOOLISH ACCIDENT.
YOU'RE PROBABLY RIGHT, HONEY, BUT LET'S HAVE A LOOK.
PRETTY BUT NOT PARTICULARLY VALUABLE... I CAN'T... WELL, HELLO! WHAT'S THIS?
OUR ROSE HOLDS A VERY STRANGE DEWDROP AT ITS HEART.
I DIDN'T KNOW THAT WAS IN THERE, RIP! WHAT IS IT?

ARCHIE By Montana



PINK UNDIES AND PINK PAJAMAS! WELL, LA-DI-DA!
OKAY! OKAY! IF YOU'RE GOING TO STAY OVERNIGHT, DRY UP!
AND PINK SHEETS AND PILLOW CASES! ARCHIE, HAVE YOU GONE SISSIE?
IT'S MOM'S IDEA!
THEN WHY DOESN'T SHE PUT THEM ON HER OWN BED?
BECAUSE....
...I'M THE ONE WHO THREW THE RED SOCKS IN THE WASHING MACHINE!

GASOLINE ALLEY By Frank King

Gee, Marge, you were swell to get me in over at QQQ!
So you got an audition, Judy?
Better yet I've done two spots!
Great! I haven't done any.
Oh, but Mr. Brisk has some other things for you! I know he has.
My phone has been strangely silent.
Golly, I hope Marge doesn't think I took those jobs away from her!

JOE PALOOKA By Ham Fisher

NICE GOIN', STEVE! HI, JOE!
YER A REAL CHAMP, STEVE!
TH' GREATEST!
THANKS!
I MUST SEE HIM... LET ME THROUGH!
I KNEW YOU'D DO IT FOR ME... YOU WERE SIMPLY GRAND. I'LL WAIT FOR YOU OUTSIDE, STEVIE DARLING!
I SENT HER A TICKET IN YOUR CORNER LIKE YA SAID, STEVE...
I KNOW... BUT SHE SAT IN FOXY'S CORNER... STRANGE, ISN'T IT?

TERRY AND THE PIRATES By George Wunder

WELL, MISS FOLLY HAVE WE STRUCK A BARGAIN? TERRY LEE IN RETURN FOR YOUR ASSISTANCE!
I-I DON'T KNOW... WHAT IF I REFUSE?

Farm Machinery Sales Sag Likely To Continue

By SAM DAWSON

CHICAGO (AP)—If farmers would go for two-tone tractors with pastel seat covers it might help the farm equipment industry work its way onto firmer ground. But a farmer doesn't buy to keep up with the Joneses. He can hold off buying machinery if his future becomes shaky and he can make an old model last a long time.

So the implement makers find business soft today with most signs pointing to even softer ground lying immediately ahead.

Sagging sales, mounting layoffs and high inventories plague most of the companies. Much of the industry ruefully admits it probably will go right on the rest of the year being one of the economy's soft spots.

BUT JOHN L. McCAFFREY, International Harvester chairman, sees a turning point now in the farmer's psychology which could make him less of a hard sell next spring.

He cites the recent uptrend in hog prices, removing one of the severest of farmers' gripes this year (two years ago it was the dairy farmer who was hurting). Good rains have ended drought conditions in important farming areas. There's a chance of a good corn crop and perhaps a bigger pig crop. And the uncertainty over farm legislation has finally been removed with the signing of the farm bill with its soil bank program.

"But, even so," he said in an interview, "I don't think our farm equipment sales the rest of this year can equal the volume of the same period a year ago, and sales seem sure to be below the first half of the year, disappointing as those were.

"MANY OF THE uncertainties holding the farmer back since hog prices broke late last year have been resolved. But it has probably come too late to be felt this year."

The normal farm implement sales year starts gathering speed around February, crests by mid April or the first of May. By June the machinery salesman has had it. He may get a minor revival by selling some tractors for fall plowing.

International Harvester reports that layoffs in its farm machinery division now top 23,000 and expects it to go even higher while sizable inventories are being worked off. It has a layoff plan, like that in the auto industry, which goes into effect September 1.

McCaffrey also reports that in the six months ended April 30 his company's sales of farm equipment in the United States dropped 23 million dollars from the year ago figure. Gains in foreign sales offset this somewhat. And a boom in its sales of trucks and construction equipment pulled its over-all earnings ahead of a year ago.

MINNEAPOLIS-MOLINE, however, reported declining sales resulted in a net loss of 1½ million dollars in the first six months of its fiscal year. Due to a change in accounting methods its figures aren't strictly comparable to a year ago.

Deere has had both sales troubles and a labor dispute that closed some of its plants for many weeks.

There are around 1,200 companies involved in some phase of the farm market, but only seven or eight are big full-line outfits. Those with defense contracts or diversified in other lines such as trucks have been able to offset lagging farm machinery sales.

Total industry sales last year topped 1½ billion dollars, soaking up about 15 per cent of net farm income. This year farm income will be lower, but the drop in farm equipment buying is even greater, as the farmer watches and waits.

BRIGHTER TO many in and out of the business is the long term outlook for the industry. In recent years the number of farm workers has been dropping and also the number of farms. The average size of a farm has been increasing. The trend away from the small farm to a larger mechanized one continues, painful as it is to the little fellow who finds himself looking elsewhere for a living.

Economists at the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago point out one attraction of mechanization: Since 1940 the price of farm machinery has doubled; but in the same period farm wage rates have quadrupled.

With fewer but larger farms and fewer farmers to meet the needs of a growing population, the bankers say, farmers in the future may rely more heavily on equipment. The machinery is being improved through research and this should speed up replacement soon.

The future looks good for the equipment industry once the farmer has adjusted to the new era. But just now, the going's rough for both.

Kentucky Church Set To Celebrate 175th Anniversary

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) — A church that was established when the Indians still roamed most of Kentucky will celebrate its 175th anniversary next week.

The Severns Valley Baptist Church was organized in June 18, 1781, in a wilderness that posed a constant threat of Indian attacks on the white settlers.

Eighteen persons were listed on the first membership roll, and for 20 years the settlers were too busy keeping their scalps to put up a building.

The first pastor, John Garrard, lost his life in an Indian raid. Services continued, however, and the church says its functions have been continuous over the 175-year period.

The church now has a membership of 2,000 and recently moved into a half-million dollar building near the old site.

A special commemoration service will be said every night next week.
